Institute Drops Plans to Develop Quaker Rd. Land

The Institute for Advanced Study has abandoned plans to develop its farm land along Quaker Road.

In a letter to the Friends of Princeton Open Space, dated March 5, Institute Director Harry Woolf writes: "we have decided to discontinue our development efforts ... The Institute for Advanced Study is not interested in selling its land or its development rights."

The decision ends 11 months of effort on the part of the re-activated "Friends" and represents, in the words of Friends president Rosemary Blair, "an outpouring of sentiment from so many in the community."

Both the Institute and the Friends emphasized the low-key, harmonious nature of the private discussions between the two groups.

"There was never a point when we felt we had a gun to our head," said Allen Rowe, associate director of the Institute. "We were never so polarized we couldn't talk. They are very fine people."

In his letter to the Friends, Dr. Woolf referred to "our common concern for the quality of environment has certainly been established and we have dealt with each other with candor and openness and considerable friendliness."

"Openness and flexibility was shown by all who took part in the negotiations," Mrs. Blair said.

"We had no inkling of this decision," she added.

In mid-February, the Friends had given the Institute an appraisal of development rights for its lands, expecting the appraisal to be considered by Institute trustees in April. The appraisal figure was never made public. Mr. Rowe said this week that the deci-

Tigers Win 65-56; Head for Salt Lake

Kevin Mullin had the game of his life Tuesday night in the Palestra, to lead Princeton to a 65-56 victory over San Diego in a NCAA preliminary round.

Mullin's 38 points, 22 in the first half, earned the Tigers a trip to Salt Lake City, Utah, where they will meet the University of Nevada at Las Vegas Thursday night. The Running Rebels are ranked among the nation's top 10 teams.

Mullin's ability to drive inside against the Toreros was the determining factor in the contest. He hit seven of nine shots in the first half, and eight of 10 from the foul line, converting on three of four three-point plays.

The Orange and Black fell behind only once in the contest, 3-2, but quickly pulled away to a

Ivan, Murray Win Suit Against School Board

Physical education teachers Lawrence Ivan and Thomas Murray were improperly transferred in 1981 from Princeton High School to other schools and are to be re-instated, the Appellate Division of Superior Court ruled on Monday.

The ruling reversed a finding by Saul Cooperman, state Commissioner of Education — later confirmed by the State Board of Education — that the transfer was in order.

Mr. Ivan and Mr. Murray, who had taught for several years at Princeton High School, were transferred to Littlebrook and the Middle School respectively. With the closing of Littlebrook, Mr. Ivan was transferred to Community Park; Mr. Murray is still at the Middle School.

Council Fast Running Out of Time to Hear Appeals against Collins' Plans for Square

A calendar may not be as insistent as a ticking clock but it has its own tyranny. Borough Council, looking ahead to the four appeals it must hear from Planning Board approval of Collins' plans for Palmer Square, began to be concerned about that tyranny this week.

Deadline for a decision on all four is Tuesday, April 10, a scant four weeks away. Not one appeal has been heard. No dates have even been set for the hearings.

The problem has been with obtaining transcripts of Planning Board hearings for Council members to read and digest. Council has been waiting for Shorthand Reporting Co. of Cranford, which has said it will deliver the transcripts to Borough Hall this Wednesday. The company has had since January 6 to prepare them. That was the date of publication of the Planning Board decision that is being appealed. By law, the final decision date must be 95 days from publication date — April 10.

It is expected that Council will set dates at this Tuesday's meeting, in anticipation of the transcripts' arrival. Borough attorney Walter Bliss said on Tuesday that he hopes Council will take that action.

Also, under Borough law, ten-day notice of the appeal hearing dates must be given, which pulls the time line even tighter.

Once the transcripts arrive, Mr. Bliss thinks Council may have to meet every night to hear all four appeals before April 10.

If decisions are not reached by that date, the Planning Board's approval is automatically affirmed and Collins wins.

Under the Borough's land-use law, Collins could grant an extension, but any extension is solely up to Collins.

Barbara Hill to Resign From Council in April

Barbara Hill will resign from Borough Council "sometime in late April" she revealed this week, as soon as final closing is completed on the sale of the Hills' house at 37 Hawthorne, and R. William Potter says he is doing all he can to get her off Council as soon as possible.

"Of course, I'd like to get her off Council," he stated. Mr. Potter's case against Collins Development is due to be heard by Council on appeal from the Planning Board. Ms. Hill has voted for Collins in the past and is expected to again — provided she is still on Council when the four Collins appeals are heard.

Mr. Potter says Ms. Hill "is under the mistaken assumption that she is still a resident of the Borough, but the law is extremely clear that this is not the case.

"I've talked with several real-estate agents and they confirm that there is a contract of sale for the Hills'

9-3 lead on baskets Mullin and John Smyth.

In a fast-paced first half, that saw both Howie Levy and Billy Ryan pick up three personals, Princeton managed to maintain leads of four to seven points most of the way.

There were some anxious moments when freshman Joe Scott replaced Ryan after his third personal, and SD chopped an eight-point advantage in half, but Mullin could not be stopped. He scored 15 of Princeton's last 17 before the half. His last two foul shots gave Princeton a 33-24 lead at the intermission, its biggest margin to that point.

Kevin Mullin
A Full 'Moon' Tuesday Night

Levy, too, had to sit down when he drew his third foul, but freshman Alan Williams filled in competently. Both Ryan and Levy returned at the start of the second half, and the Tigers quickly pulled away to a 13-point lead.

They couldn't quite put the contest on ice, however. The Toreros 6-6 senior Mike Whitmarsh, who finished with 17, and guard John Prunty, who canned long bombs from outside, kept the losers within striking distance. A spate of Princeton turnovers, enabled San Diego to close within five, 47-42 with 4:50 to go.

At that point, Princeton started to run the remaining time off the clock, forcing the West Coast team to foul repeatedly. Mullin, Levy, Carter and Ryan were almost flawless in their foul shooting, as the Tigers pulled slowly away.

Overall, Mullin shot a torrid 80 percent from the field, 12 of 15, and added 14 of 16 from the line. John Smyth had one of his better games, scoring 13 points, and playing superbly on defense. Princeton's zone cut off the Toreros inside game, and 6-11 center Scott Thompson was never a factor.

Other scoring came from Levy, six points, Isaac Carter, four, Ryan, two, and Scott, two. But it was clearly Mullin's night. Only three players, Bill Bradley, Geoff Petrie and Brian Taylor have ever scored more points in a game. Bradley had 58, Petrie and Taylor both tallied 39.

For Pete Carril, it was icing on the cake, after winning the Ivy title. He now must prepare his players to face the free-wheeling UNLV team (27-5), with the victor advancing to face the University of Texas at El Paso (27-3) over the weekend. The season may end Thursday night, but what a season it has been.

Institute Land

sion to forego development was made by the executive committee of the trustees in a meeting at the end of February.

For the Central Jersey group of the Sierra Club, Jose Garcia said the group is "extremely happy" over the Institute's decision.

"The community sent a very strong message to the Institute through our petition drive and letters, and the Institute should be commended for listening to this message," Mr. Garcia said.

"Although it doesn't indicate a long-term commitment to preservation of the land, we're sure the reponse of the community on this issue will not be forgotten."

Mr. Rowe himself pointed out that aspect of the decision.

"Some people would like to see this decision legally nailed down," he commented, "and it's true another Institute board or administration could decide to do something different."

Mr. Garcia, who lives in West Windsor, said the Sierra Club still believes the rezoning of Institute lands was a mistake. He hopes the Township will "correct it."

Meanwhile, what will the Institute do for money? It was need for money that brought on development ideas in the first place.

"We'll redouble our efforts," Mr. Rowe said wryly.

There is a Friends of the Institute, but "it doesn't hold the promise for what we need," he continued. "It's hard to give a dollar amount: you can always live with less than you think you need. A lot depends on what happens to the stock market. I'd say $15 to $25 million is a target figure."

There is a "meanwhile" for the Friends of Princeton Open Space, also. The group will now move ahead with its Greenway plans and will meet with the Institute on that subject later this week.

The proposed Greenway would run along the route of the Delaware and Raritan Canal between Trenton and New Brunswick. It comprises lands of the Institute and Princeton University, the commercial campuses of such companies as Lenox, local parks like Turning Basin, and so on.

The Friends will work with developers to encourage easements along stream corridors and the canal hoping to develop a series of open space areas along the canal.

A task force includes the Trust for Public Land, the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association and the Canal Commission. James Sayen, retiring from the Canal Commission, will be head of the task force.

Members of the Friends of Princeton Open Space who negotiated with the Institute include Mrs. Blair, Mr. Sayen, Lawrence Norris Kerr, William Starr and Margaret Meiss.

ASK NO-CONNECTION

Did Planning Board Know? A request to put back a cancelled no-connection sewer zone was scheduled for presentation to Borough Council Tuesday night by the Joint Borough-Township Environmental Commission. A similar request has been rejected by Township Committee.

Peggy McNeill, head of the Commission, said this week that a perusal of old Sewer Operating Committee minutes showed that on September 20, 1982, the SOC unanimously passed a motion recording "strenuous objections" to any further approval of developments by the Planning Board until the "Utilities" element of the Master Plan has been adopted. The "Utilities" part of the Master Plan — still not adopted — would deal with sewers. The motion had been made by Richard Schoch, Township Committee representative on the SOC.

However, according to Mrs. McNeill there is no evidence in Planning Board records that the board ever received word of the SOC's action or that it was ever discussed by the Planning Board.

"If we'd known what the SOC had done," she said, "the Environmental Commission would have backed them up."

In a related matter, Mrs. McNeill reported that minutes of July 20, 1983, when the SOC voted to wipe out the no-connection sewer zone, report that developer Benedict Yedlin was "pleased" (the word used in the minutes, although not necessarily Mr. Yedlin's own word) when the no-connection zone was eliminated.

Mr. Yedlin said this week that in July he will complete formal agreements to buy from Princeton University the Foulet property on Cherry Hill Road, a tract which lies in the former no-connection zone. His plans for 37 clustered lots on that property will go before the Environmental Design Review Committee May 9 and later to the Planning Board.

Because of this purchase agreement, Mrs. McNeill said that in her view, Princeton University's two representatives on the SOC — Michael McKay and George Glahn — should have abstained in the vote to eliminate the no-connection zone.

Also this Tuesday, Council is scheduled to announce that it will defer payment of the March installment on underbilling charges owed to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

Before paying, Council wants to discuss the report from the Authority's independent consultant and sewerage meter investigations by Borough engineer George Olexa, Township engineer Robert Kiser and Borough attorney Walter Bliss. There will be no financial penalty for late payment, Council members say.

Also on Tuesday, Council was scheduled to decide whether to accept the Township's invitation to pay half the cost of dredging the canal in the Township's Turning Basin Park. Cost would be $53,000 — $26,500 each for Borough and Township. Other dredging money would come from state Green Acres funds.

PLANS BEFORE BOARDS

Russell, Salzman, Peyton. Plans for development of the Russell estate off Edgerstoune Road are on the agenda of the Environmental Design Review Committee this Wednesday. They are scheduled to be heard about 8 p.m. in the Valley Road building.

Last week, the Planning Board had to postpone scheduled hearings on the Montadale Drive subdivision of Albert Salzman for lack of a quorum. Two of the board's members — Peter Bearse and Michael Floyd — were absent, although according to Pearl Pillon, each one had said he would be present. Board member Richard Schoch is ineligible to participate because he is a Salzman neighbor.

Salzman hearings have been re-scheduled for Tuesday, April 3. The developer is Russell Baltzer.

A concept for developing the Peyton property on Pretty Brook Road was also presented to the board last Tuesday. The buyer and developer plans to live in the main house on the 129-acre plot and carve 24 lots out of the property.

BUDGET IS POSTPONED

Ceremony Sunday at Cleveland Grave

Maj. Gen Thomas W. Kelly, commanding general, U.S. Army Training Center at Fort Dix, will lead a contingent of military and civilian officials in a commemorative wreath-laying ceremony Sunday at the gravesite of former President Grover Cleveland.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony in the Princeton Cemetery, which will begin at 3 p.m.

An honor guard and color detail will be provided by Fort Dix, which is the nearest major military installation to the gravesite. By tradition, the gravesites of all former U.S. Presidents are visited annually by local military commanders as representatives of the incumbent President. Civilian officials who are expected to attend are Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike and Borough Mayor Barbara B. Sigmund.

Sunday is the 147th anniversary of the birth of Grover Cleveland, a native of Caldwell, N.J., who became the nation's 22nd and 24th President. He was first elected in 1884 after gaining national fame as a corruption fighter as Mayor of Buffalo, N.Y., and New York State Governor. Defeated in 1888, he ran again in 1892 and defeated the incumbent Republican, Benjamin Harrison.

After retiring from office in 1896, President Cleveland moved to Princeton where he served as a lecturer and trustee at the University. He purchased the stately mansion at 15 Hodge Road built by Commodore Robert F. Stockton for his daughter Caroline and her husband, William A. Dod. He named the property "Westlands" in honor of his friend, Andrew Fleming West, proponent and later Dean of the Graduate College.

an additional $15,000 in the legal account that may be needed in regard to the proposed Calton Homes development and Mt. Laurel requirements for low and moderate income housing. The recent increase in Township Committee salaries, adjustments in Police Department salaries to reflect three new probationary patrolmen and two new desk officers, and a request from the Joint Commission on Aging for $500 to start a van service for the elderly make up the rest of the changes, along with a change in federal revenue sharing funds.

According to Township Administrator James Pascale, the amendments made for juggling of emounts and accounts within the budget. They do not affect the total dollar amount, $7.4 million, up 18 percent from last year, nor the amount to be raised by taxation, which is $2.4 million. The budget amendments will not affect the municipal tax rate, $.377 per $100 of assessed valuation, up almost 11 percent from last year.

Committee held the public hearing on the 1984 budget and introduced the ordinance amending the budget at its regular meeting last Monday night. The public hearing on the budget amendments will be held on Monday, March 26, and the amended budget will be adopted then as well.

Committeewoman Gail W. Firestone voted against introduction of the budget amendments, explaining that she felt increases in Township Committee salaries should not be tied to staff increases. "That's like rewarding ourselves for spending money," Mrs. Firestone said. She proposed that Committee receive a raise in years the budget is below the previous budget and be docked when it goes above. Hers was the lone nay to the budget amendments introduction.

In other business, Committee agreed to hear an appeal by Dr. Paul E. Van Horn from a Planning Board decision requiring him to dedicate five feet of his office building property at 211 North Harrison Street for future widening of Harrison Street to conform to the Master Plan. Committee agreed it would consider an appeal only in relation to the dedication of the roadway. No date was set for the hearing.

Committee also introduced an ordinance prohibiting smoking at public meetings in the Township's Valley Road meeting rooms and in Township Hall above the Police Station. The public hearing for the measure will be on Monday, April 2.

SUPPORT IS GIVEN

To Sewerage Authority. "The role of incessant sewer-system whip is not altogether a joy..." says Dwight O. North in a statement designed to show "why and how" charges of "intolerable inefficiency" leveled against the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority are "ill-formulated, untrue and thoroughly misleading."

In his statement, Mr. North, a Random Road resident who has made almost a career of sewer investigation, says it is an "undocumented claim" that Borough residents are paying 11 times as much to the Authority as they used to pay the old Princeton system. The old sewer plant, Mr. North says, "flagrantly, fragrantly violated effluent-control law and dumped vast amounts of untreated sewage into the Millstone River."

As to charges that SBRSA unit charges for treating Princeton sewage have tripled, Mr. North presents tables with figures obtained from the SBRSA and Ewing Lawrence Sewerage Authority to show that total unit costs and operating-maintenance costs for Princeton have dropped by a factor of about 3/4.

He says it is "patently invidious" to compare operating and maintenance costs of ELSA with the total costs of the SBRSA. Those costs are declining steadily at the SBRSA, he says, and rising at ELSA where sewage-treatment improvements have not yet been completed.

The SBRSA, Mr. North says, collects figures from about a dozen other sewage treatment plants in New Jersey and after looking over these statistics, Mr. North has concluded that no other plant doing the "advanced secondary" treatment of sewage that is done by the SBRSA, "puts SBRSA in a shadow."

dable Housing" study committee, co-chair John Huntoon said this week. Newcomers bring the committee to a membership of 46.

New members are Letitia Ufford, Nancy Browder, Sheila Cook, Eugene McPartland, Evelyn Geddes, Gary Green, the Rev. Jean Smith and two graduate students at Princeton University. There will also be a representative later from St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Mr. Huntoon said.

Mr. McPartland, a vice-president of Princeton University, handles physical planning for the University. Mr. Green is vice-president of Collins Development. Both Mrs. Browder and Mrs. Cook are Princeton landlords. Mrs. Ufford is a member of Princeton Community Housing, Inc., the non-profit organization responsible for lower-cost housing in Princeton.

MORE HOUSING?

Report to be Considered. The threat of an imminent law suit hangs over the Planning Board discussions of a housing report that will begin this Thursday at 7:30 in the Valley Road building.

Another hearing has already been scheduled for next Wednesday, March 21 (same time, place) and there will be a total of about five public sessions, dates to be announced, extending to the end of April.

But Calton Homes, Inc., has announced that it will sue the Township unless Committee introduces by March 22 the kind of housing and zoning ordinances Calton wants. The firm is proposing 1,280 homes on the 128-acre tract between Mercer and Stockton Street owned by Mrs. Ferdinand White and known as Hunt Farm. Twenty percent of the units would be lower-cost housing.

With approximately five hearings going to April 30, clearly the deadline of March 22 cannot be met. Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike this week was philosophical.

"These folks must realize the Planning Board can't always move as fast as some people would like and still give matters their full consideration," the mayor said. "And if the board can't move fast enough to satisfy them – well, that's that."

The report, by Alan Mallach and John R. Nolon of the Center for Community Development and Preservation of Tarrytown, New York, was presented last Wednesday to the housing sub-committee of the Planning Board.

It suggests an "Affordable Housing District," comprising almost the entire Borough and Township except for limited growth areas and institutional sites. Low-cost housing could be provided anywhere in this district as a Conditional Use, thereby dispersing lower-cost housing throughout the community.

The report also proposes a Housing Trust to provide financial help that would induce property-owners to build lower-cost units. A density bonus, allowing developers greater density if they give a percentage of the sale price to an Affordable Housing Fund.

Copies of the report are available in the Planning Board office, Valley Road Building, at ten cents a sheet. The report may also be read there.

After the public hearings, the Planning Board will adopt the appropriate amendments to the Master Plan.

LAW OFFICE LOOTED

Of Four Electric Typewriters. Four IBM Selectric typewriters with an estimated value of $4,000 were stolen last week from a second-floor law office in the One Palmer Square building. The office was entered overnight, police said, by an intruder who broke out a glass door to the office.

Another IBM Selectric was stolen overnight last week from a Henry Avenue home which is owned by the Princeton Medical Center and used as an office. A security guard found a door had been forced open at 1:20 a.m. Police report that a second door to another office was forced open but nothing was taken.

At approximately the same time and same area, police, while investigating the above entry, discovered that one of the doctors' suites in the Medical Arts Building on Witherspoon Street had been broken into and lightly ransacked. Nothing appeared to have been taken, however. Ptl. James Vandermark investigated both entries.

In one of three entries last week on the Princeton University campus, more than a dozen pieces of jewelry was stolen between noon and 4:30 last Wednesday from a student's room in Foulke Hall.

Items of known value taken totalled $466.30 and were removed from the top of a dresser. There were no signs of forced entry although the victim told police the room had been locked.

An AM-FM radio cassette player valued at $160 was taken last week from an unlocked room in Lockhart Hall, and some uncut luncheon meat worth $65 was stolen from the kitchen of the Terrace Club off Washington Road between 8:30 and 10:40 Monday night. Police said they are waiting for an itemized list of what was taken.

To enter the club, the intruder removed a piece of cardboard covering a broken window and then pushed aside four wooden slats to reach in and unlock a door.

STORE WINDOWS TARGET

Of Vandals. Expensive, quarter-inch plate glass windows in Nassau Street food shops were used as targets last week by someone shooting a BB-type projectile.

Police first received a report of a BB or pellet hole in a four by five foot front window in a sandwich shop in the 200 block of Nassau Street. The same day, a five-foot square window in an ice cream parlor was the target, and later -- all the incidents occurred on the same day -- the sandwich shop called police at 3:45 p.m. to report another window, measuring four by three-feet, had been shot by a pellet.

Capt. John J. Bellow reported that police checked the areas without success. They were unable to recover any of the projectiles, which, he said, probably came from someone firing from a passing car.

An employee of the Princeton Medical Center told Township police that two tires on his 1982 Fiat were punctured while it was parked between 11 Thursday night and 6:15 the next morning in the hospital's parking garage.

A Princeton University employee reported that the entire right side door window of his 1973 sedan was broken out while it was parked for four hours Monday afternoon in a university lot on College Road.

Nothing was taken from the car and police say they don't know how the window was broken because no object was recovered.

FIRE ON PROSPECT AVE.

Electric Blanket Blamed. A folded electric blanket which was left on is being blamed for a fire last week in a home at 720 Prospect Avenue. A general alarm was sounded at 1:35.

All of the occupants escaped injury, police said, but a dachshund, which had suffered smoke inhalation and was almost unconscious, had to be rescued by a fireman. Police report damage to the bedroom where the fire originated and extensive smoke and water damage.

BUS, CAR MEET HEAD ON

On Route 206. A Mercer Metro bus and a 1980 sedan collided head on Monday night on Route 206 south near Edgerstoune Road.

The driver of the car, which was a total loss, was pinned inside and had to be removed by the Princeton Rescue Squad with the aid of a Jaws Of Life machine. The victim, 18-year old Joseph T. Delorefice of Upper Darby, Pa., was taken by the First Aid Squad to Princeton

Medical Center where he was admitted for treatment of a broken leg and lacerations of the face.

The driver of the bus, Robert A. Brooks, 33, of Trenton, and the eight to ten passengers aboard were not injured.

Ptl. Peter Savalli, who is investigating the accident, reported that it had not yet been determined what caused the two vehicles to meet in the same lane. The roads were clear, he said, at the time of the mishap -- 10:33 p.m. No summonses have been issued, pending the completion of his investigation.

Traffic Signal Leveled. An 18-wheel tractor-trailer turning right from Stockton Street onto Elm Road Friday afternoon, uprooted and knocked down a traffic light when it turned too sharply and the trailer caught the light standard pole.

Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel charged the driver, Charles H. Powers, 48, of North Lima, Ohio, with careless driving and operating while his license is suspended.

EQUIPMENT STOLEN From Palmer Stadium. Pieces of electronic equipment worth approximately $7,900 were reported stolen last week from Palmer Stadium.

Included in items taken from a locked room near the end of the press box were an oscilliscope valued at $5,700 and a $2,100 amplifier. The equipment is the property of New Jersey Bell who reported the theft to police last week. Police said the theft took place sometime between February 18-27.

Entry to the room was gained by forcing a door, police said. Ptl. William Potts investigated.

Two Apple computers valued at $2,000 each and a $600 printer have been stolen from a room in the Activity Center on the Hun School campus. They were taken sometime during a five-day period last week, police said. There was no forced entry.

Stolen last week from a locked wooden cabinet in a cellar of a home under construction on Mountain Avenue were items valued at approximately $450. Taken, police said, were two masonary drills, two thermostats, two aquastat controllers and six gallons of foam sealant. Det. David Wilbur investigated.

A red steel tool box containing assorted building tools was stolen last week from the floor of a pickup truck cab while the truck was parked from 1:30 to 2 p.m.on Maclean Street.

Police identified the owner as a resident of Hamilton Township. The door on the passenger's side of the cab was unlocked, police said.

THEFT SUSPECT CAUGHT And Charged. A suspect in a theft at the Princeton Inn Dormitory off Alexander Street was caught Sunday night shortly after he had been observed by another student who supplied university proctors with a description.

Luther D. McKellar, 25, of Lytle Street, was later charged by Sgt. Gerald Patterson with burglary and two counts of theft. He was later released after being issued a complaint summons calling for his appearance March 21 in Borough Court.

McKellar was charged with allegedly stealing a micro cassette recorded valued at $80, a 35 mm camera valued at $50 and $4.50 from a desk from an unlocked and unattended students' room. He had been observed, police said, by another student who was a friend of the victims.

After university security had been supplied with a description of the suspect, Proctor James Collins observed a person fitting the description on University Place near Alexander. He placed the suspect in custody and notified security who called Borough police.

While searching the suspect for weapons, Sgt. Patterson found a hard object in one of his pockets which turned out to be the micro recorder.

McKellar was arrested and taken to police headquarters. Police contacted the witness who came to headquaters to identify the suspect.

FILET SHOPLIFTED

Trenton Pair Charged. Two Trenton residents have been charged with shoplifting a 6.45 pound filet mignon valued at $29.97 from a Nassau Street market.

They are Robert R. Rossi, 34, and Judy A. Kaiser, 22. The two were observed Monday by a store security officer. According to police, Ms. Kaiser was observed by the security officer near the meat counter holding a grocery basket. She then walked to a aisle in the interior of the store where she was joined by Rossi who allegedly took the filet from the basket and placed it in his pants, concealing it with his green jacket.

At the checkout register, Rossi was approached by the security officer who questioned him about the filet in his pants. Both suspects were taken to police headquarters, issued a complaint summons and released, pending their appearance April 4 in court.

Theft By Deception. A Hamilton Square teenager, Bruce S. Mendel, 19, has been charged by Borough police with attempted theft by deception, attempted unlawful use of a credit card and falsifying records. Mendel, who was arrested Friday evening in a 20 Nassau Street store, was later released in $100 cash bail. He is scheduled to appear in Borough court March 21.

As recounted by Captain John J. Bellow, Mendel had ordered from store by telephone a stereo receiver valued at $479 and a $466 digital disc player. He gave a valid number from a Visa credit card and told the store that he would send a friend over to pick up the merchandise.

However, when the actual owner of the card was called by the store, he revealed that he had made no such purchase nor had he authorized anyone to make a transaction in his behalf.

After police were notified, Det. James Agains stationed himself in the store and waited until the suspect appeared. When Mendel signed a fictitous name to the credit card slip and attempted to retrieve the items, he was arrested.

Capt. Bellow stated that the card owner told them he did not know how his number had been obtained by someone else.

4 JUVENILES APPREHENDED After Winant Rd. Break-In. Following an hour's pursuit in the snow by an encircling ring of Township and Borough police officers, four juveniles were apprehended Friday afternoon and all charged with the breaking and entering of a Winant Road home.

The oldest, Township Chief Anthony Pinelli reported, is 15. Two are 14 and one is 12. All are residents of Trenton. Several have had numerous previous contacts with police.

The 15-year-old had recently been released from the Skillman Training School for Boys, Chief Pinelli reported. He has a previous record of approximately 15 break-ins. He was sent to the Mercer County Youth House while the other three juveniles were released to their parents, awaiting further action by a Mercer County Juvenile Court.

Township police were first alerted when a alarm in the Winant Road sounded at 2:30. When Ptl. James Vandermark arrived, he discovered that a rear window had been pried open. There were footprints in the snow leading away from the house. The officer spoke with a neighbor who confirmed seeing youths running from the home.

Police said there were two sets of tracks at first, then three, then four. They went across Winant Road, across Edgerstoune into the abandoned Russell Estate.

Four to five Township officers were joined by an equal number from the Borough as police encircled the area where the youths were known to be located. "Ptl. Vandermark did a good job of tracking them," said Chief Pinelli.

"It was quite a chore running in the snow. Those kids were young and had a lot of energy. It was a good effort on our part with the assistance of the Borough to apprehend all four."

Fifty minutes after the alarm had sounded the first youth was apprehended. Ten minutes later all three had been captured, one near the Constitution Hill housing development, another near Elm Road and two more near Rosedale. Lt. Samuel Bianco and Ptl. William Potts of the Township each grabbed one of the fleeing suspects while Borough police netted the other two.

The investigation at the break-in site was conducted by Ptl. David Cromwell.

Police said the youths had taken a large pair of wire cutters from a tool shed and cut the wires to the house. They then used the cutters to pry open a window to enter the house, which they ransacked. Police uncovered two bottles of liquor and a gold commemorative coin hidden under the snow near the house.

TIP FROM PASSER-BY

Arrests Follow. Charges of drug and unlawful weapon possession against two out-of-town residents last week were the result of a tip from a passer-by.

A 10:52 in the evening, a passer-by called Borough police to report that two occupants in a brown Volkswagen parked on Tulane Street were using cocaine. Ptl. Mark Stillitano and Ptl. Donald Dawson responded and located the car.

The first thing the officers observed was a pair of karate nun-chuks, a martial arts weapon consisting of two 13-inch wooden clubs connected by a five-inch steel chain. "It's a very dangerous weapon in the hands of an experienced person," commented Capt. John Bellow. A further seach of the car uncovered a brass pipe and some marijuana in the glove compartment.

The occupants, Michael P. Lewis, 25, of Lonaconing, Md. and Bryan K. Wilson, 22, of Morrisville were each charged with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana, and Lewis with possession of an unlawful weapon. Both were issued summons at police headquarters and then released. They are scheduled to appear in Borough court on next Wednesday.

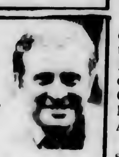
LET'S TALK ABOUT



WHAT IS A WOODWINDS???
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

WOODWINDS is a Tree and Landscape company. We offer to our clients, both commercial and residential, a variety of choices when it comes to looking after their gardens and trees. WOODWINDS will consult, suggest, perform to the finish all the aspects of tree care. We also perform very specialized landscaping. We suggest to many of our clients an Annual Maintenance Program specialized for the needs of the individual property, both large and small.

WOODWINDS suggests preventive maintenance – pruning, spraying, deep root feeding, lightning protection and cabling. We also do stump and brush removal. Our crews also specialize in drainage problems.

WOODWINDS strives to serve our clients well. Why not give WOODWINDS a call (924-3500)?

P.S. It's time for your Dormant Oil Spray!!!

MONEY AND WRITING

At Sixth Annual Seminar. Earning money by writing and developing versatility in a writing career are the twin themes of the sixth annual professional seminar of the New Jersey Press Women, to be held at Woodrow Wilson auditorium, Princeton University, Saturday, March 24.

A feature of the day will be a talk, during lunch at the University Faculty Club by Grace Weinstein, "Writers and Money: Are They Incompatible?" She is the author of "The Lifetime Book of Money Management" and columnist for Good Housekeeping and Success magazines.

The morning session will include Fran Carpentier, articles editor for Parade Magazine; Mary McHugh, contributing editor of Cosmopolitan and Hara Marano, executive editor of American Health.

In the afternoon, the seminar will hear Thomas C. Hunter, director of corporate public relations at Union Camp and editor of Writers Newsletter who will speak on "Breaking Publishing Barriers."

Arthur Gladstone, who writes romance novels under several pen names, and his wife, Helen North, author of "Cooking Without Recipes" will talk about versatility and satisfaction in work. They will give a slide presentation.

Sara Lazin, president of Lazin Books, will describe a new kind of book publisher, the "producer."

Ruth Winter, president of the New Jersey Press Woman and columnist for the Newark Star Ledger, and freelance writer Virginia Stuart are co-chairs of the seminar. The $49 registration fee includes lunch and is tax-deductible. Checks to NJPW may be sent to Bonnie Hollis, 2497 Venezia Avenue, Vineland, N.J. 08360.

34 DEALERS READY

For Antiques Show. Furniture, quilts, decoys and porcelain will be among the variety of wares offered by 34 eastern seaboard dealers at the 25th annual Princeton Antiques Show. The show will open its three-day run on Friday at Princeton Day School.

Marking its silver anniversary, the show will feature silver objects from several dealers and a lecture on silver in America. There will also be a full array of furniture, rugs, lamps, paintings, toys, and jewelry from bygone days. This year's show will feature dealers from eight states, from New Hampshire to Virginia.

The show, sponsored by the Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey and the Mount Holyoke Club of Princeton, for the benefit of the scholarship funds of each college, will begin Thursday with a Silver Anniversary Preview, from 6:30 to 9:30. Preview tickets, $25 at the door, will cover admission and cocktails and hors d'oeuvre, as well as three special lectures and three days of antique shopping or viewing.

Ticket prices will be $4 at the door during show hours, Friday and Saturday, 11 to 9, and noon to 5 Sunday. The lectures, preceding each day's opening by one hour, will feature Alice Cooney Frelinghuysen of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, speaking on American glass on Friday, Gerald W. R. Ward of the Yale University Art Gallery, speaking on silver, Saturday, and George O'Bannon, A Pittsburgh dealer, speaking on Oriental rugs, Sunday.

Refreshments ranging from snacks to full meals will be availble throughout.

New dealers this year will include Birchknoll of Millis, Mass. (18th and 19th century furniture, rugs, Staffordshire, porcelains); Oriental Rugs Ltd. of Mystic, Conn; Stephen

Election Board Workers

At the primary election in June and the general election in November, each voting district is managed by four election board workers, two Democratic and two Republican. Both parties would like to hear from those who are interested in serving.

This is a paid position, $50 for each election. A one-evening indoctrination is held in Princeton in the spring and the fall. Applicants need only be registered voters in Mercer County and do not have to live in Princeton Township or Borough.

Those who would like to learn more about being an election board worker for the Democrats should call Ginger Lennon at 924-7242. To work as a Republican, call Tom Poole, 924-2271.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

On Ethical Investing. A workshop on "Socially Responsible Investing" will be held Sunday evening from 7:30 to 10 at Christ Congregation, 48 Walnut Lane.

The worship has been organized by members of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament and is designed to provide information to individuals and organizations on how they can invest their funds, taking social and ethical issues, as well as financial returns, into consideration.

Timothy Smith, Director of the Interfaith Coalition for Corporate Responsibility (ICCR), will open the evening with a talk on "How to Be a Socially Responsible Shareholder."

A second workshop will be led by Mr. Smith on "Responding to Corporate Involvement in South Africa." A third will focus on "Responding to Corporate Involvement in Weapons Production," and will be led by Rebecca Blank, an economist at Princeton University, and Rachel Findley, acting director of the New Jersey Freeze Voter '84 campaign.

Organizers of the workshop emphasize that socially responsible investing is an issue of importance to all types of investors. There will be information useful to people with only a few thousand dollars in investments, as well as information of use to individuals or organizations who deal regularly with large amounts of money.

The workshop costs $5 and interested persons may register at the door. An informational packet on this issue, "Resources for Responsible Investors," has also been prepared by the Coalition office, 40 Witherspoon Street, for $3.00.

For further information on this event, call the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, 924-5022.

PROFESSOR TO SPEAK

At UJA Appeal. The Princeton United Jewish Appeal's major gifts reception for the 1984 fund raising campaign will be held on Sunday at 3 at the home of Victor and Perrisue Silverstein.

Prof. Allen Pollack, a founder and former national chairman of The American Professors for Peace in the Middle East, will be the guest of honor. Prof. Pollack, who has recently emigrated to Israel, is director of The Institute for Leadership Development, the major seminar center of the Jewish Agency for Israel. For further information, contact Mrs. Silverstein at 924-2141.

Prof. Allen Pollack

The United Jewish Appeal is an organization providing a wide range of health, welfare, rehabilitation, educational, and cultural services to Jews in 30 countries around the world, including Israel. It aids Jewish immigrants settling in Israel and other countries. In addition, UJA helps support area organizations including the Jewish Family Services of the Greater Trenton Area and the Princeton University Hillel Foundation.

The executive board includes Florence Kahn, chairman; Chaim Schreiber, Susan Hollander, and Mark Cohen, vice chairmen; Norman Denard, corresponding secretary; Barbara Litt, financial secretary; and Rubin Schwartzstein, treasurer.

DEADLINE NEAR

For Volunteer Nominations. Outstanding volunteers may still be nominated for the 1984 Robert E. Clancy Award but the deadline is this Friday. The Council of Community Services makes the award and the companion Clancy Youth Award, both to individuals who have served the community through direct volunteer services.

Nomination forms are available at the Council's office in the Valley Road Building, Princeton, or by calling the office at 924-5865 or 799-6033.

Judges will be Richard Gilbert, the Rev. Bernadine McRipley, Sally Piller, John Seiber and Jeanne Silvester.

Both awards will be presented at a luncheon to be held May 10 at the Nassau Club, Princeton, during National Volunteer Week — May 6-12.

All judges have their own records of volunteer service. Mr. Gilbert, treasurer of the Family Service Agency, received the Gerald B. Lambert Community Service Award in 1977. Mrs. Piller is president and crew chief of the Montgomery Township First Aid Squad and is a member of the Montgomery Elder Citizens' Council.

Mr. Seiber has been a member of the Plainsboro Lions Club, the volunteer fire company and has been a trustee of the United Way. Mrs. Silvester has also received the Lambert Service Award and, in addition, the Eden Institute Award and the Council's citation for Distinguished Volunteer Leadership.

The Rev. Ms. McRipley has been president of the League of Women Voters, East Windsor-Hightstown; head of the Princeton Outreach Ministry and has served on the board of the Council of Community Services.

Clarification.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Kay Bretnall's article on Architects in the March 1 Town Topics was excellent. I only have one problem. I was quoted as saying that Dean McLaughlin advised me "Don't work in Princeton - its a terrible place".

Dean McLaughlin has been a wonderful mentor and very supportive of the profession locally. He was respected and admired by Princeton architects and did more than any other dean in my memory to encourage a strong rapport between the architecture school and those of us who practiced on the other side of Nassau Street.

What I was trying to tell Kay Bretnall was that at graduation, Dean McLaughlin pointed me towards the great architectural firms in New York and wrote many personal letters to the principals in these firms on my behalf. Thanks to him, I received several handsome job offers and indeed spent many years commuting to jobs in the city.

To set the record straight, it is important to emphasize that Dean McLaughlin through his excellent contacts in the profession nationwide, was a great job counselor. He was not opposed to our working in Princeton but thought there were many exciting possibilities elsewhere. My apologies to him and to your readers if what I said came out convoluted.

CRAFT SHOW PLANNED

By Lawrence Arts Council. Some 125 area craftsmen will participate in the 13th annual craft show sponsored by the Lawrence Arts Council on Saturday, March 24, from 10 to 4 at Rider College, Student Center, on Route 206 in Lawrence Township.

Admission is $1 for adults. Refreshments will be available, and there will be a free drop-in craft workshop for children.

Princeton area craftsmen featured in the show are, Carol Taraschi, silver jewelry; Linda Myhre, fabric stenciling; Tana Lilienthal and Linda Bradshaw, custom painted and quilted pillows and wall hangings; Victoria Dickson, handweaving; Deborah Nathan, hand dyed, painted and machine quilted satin; Linda Yuras, crocheted Easter items; Cindy Bartasawitz, quilted wall hangings and children's clothes;

Also, Diane Urbanek and Ginnie Cavell, counted cross-stitch; Dorathea Heinzel and Ann Noll, reproduction of antique porcelain dolls; Trinka Hommel, macrame; Carol Bakeley, shell craft; and Helen Seymour, wooden mosaic puzzles.

COOKY SALE IS ON

Girl Scouts to Gain. The Princeton Area Girl Scout Spring Cookie Sale starts this week and runs through April 1.

More than 100 area scouts will sell cookies door-to-door throughout the area. The proceeds from the sale of these cookies are the major source of funds which support local troop activities and projects.

Cookies sell for $2 a box. There are seven different varieties, including shortbread Trefoils (just 24 calories each), Thin Mints, Samoas, and Chocolate Chunks. Cookies are made with vegetable shortening, no preservatives and fine quality ingredients, such as natural chocolate, real peppermint and toasted coconut.

Those who want to help support area troops by purchasing boxes of cookies and have not been visited by a scout may call Anna Rosa Kohn at 924-2756 or Carol Haag at 924-5857 for information about how to place an order.

WANT TO SELL A FLEA?

Market, March 24. For the cost of a $10 table, you may sell anything you like at the Annual Princeton High School PTO Flea Market to be held in the school cafeteria Saturday, March 24 from 9 to 2.

Plants, clothing, furniture and household articles, crafts, collectibles, toys, sporting equipment or bric-a-brac will all be welcomed. Details are available from 921-3778 or 924-4806.

The benefit is sponsored annually by the PTO to raise money for school projects and equipment. Profits from the Flea Market will determine what can be financed.

Food and refreshments will be available — coffee and doughnuts for breakfast, and snacks for lunch — as well as home-baked cakes, cookies and pastries. All proceeds from food sales will go to the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation.

NUCLEAR AGE FOCUS

Of West Windsor Course. "Living in a Nuclear Age" is the title of a one-session course to be given by West Windsor-Plainsboro Community Education. The course will meet Monday at 7:30 at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School in Room 900C. There will be no charge.

Joel Weisberg, assistant professor of physics, Princeton University, will speak on "The ABC's of the Nuclear Arms Race and the Freeze."

Norbert A. Wetzel, psychotherapist and professor, Graduate School for Psychology, Rutgers, will speak on "The Effects of the Nuclear Arms Race Upon Children and Families."

LATIN AMERICA TOPIC

Of Lecture. Prof. Michael Jimenez of the Princeton University History Department will lecture on "History and the Latin American Crisis" at 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 22, in Bowl 2 at the Woodrow Wilson School.

Prof. Jimenez, who received his doctorate from Harvard, is the recipient of several fellowships, including the Whiting Fellowship in the Humanities (Harvard) and the Fulbright-Hayes Dissertation fellowship. His research has dealt with the social and economic structure of Latin American society and politics.

The lecture is sponsored by the International center, the Woodrow Wilson School and the International Students Association. All are welcome. Admission is free. For further information, call 452-5006.

BEARSE OPENS SHOP

Trenton Headquarters. Peter Bearse, Princeton Borough Council member who wants the Democratic nomination for Congress in New Jersey's Fourth District, has opened a "Peter Bearse for Congress" headquarters in a storefront on the corner of Hamilton and South Clinton Avenues, Trenton.

"My volunteers and I want to reach out from the Trenton headquarters to people throughout the district," he said this week. "We want to begin building bridges from the more urban parts of the district to its suburban and rural areas." Princeton is not included in the district.

COMMUNITY PARK SCHOOL

Ken Raybuck's current focus in the C.P. music program for third and fourth graders is theme and variation. He is using Aaron Copeland's "Appalachian Spring" for this part of their on-going study of different forms in music.

The Kindergarten class of Elaine Toscano went to a program at the Trenton Museum called, "A Day in the Life Of An Indian Child". The children were able to both participate and observe as they learned. During follow-up discussions in the classroom it was evident that they understood that the Lenape Indian children did not have schools as we know them. However, they also understood that the Lenape children, by watching and interacting with adults, learned to hunt, fish, gather food and be productive members of their tribe.

Because the K-1 class of Nancy Vandervoort, Marcia Kramer and Sally Rowl has 22 children from different countries in it, they have been involved in a study of families around the world. Parents are visiting the class to share slides, stories and songs from other lands. The art projects will be centered around designing banners and making finger puppets representing other nations. They have gathered a collection of artifacts which are on display in the classroom. Interested community members are welcome to join them in their appreciation of the diversity of the world's people.

Cooperative learning is flourishing at C.P. Doreen Griffin (grade 3) and Sam Ishibashi (grade 4) are piloting a math program called Team-Assisted Individualization (T.A.I.). The program was developed by researchers at The Johns Hopkins University. The structure of this program includes elements of both cooperative learning (in which students work in teams and help one another) and individualized instruction (which allows each student to work at his own pace).

The children in Miss Sharon's and Mrs. Sly's resource room are concentrating on writing. Their latest project is on the solar system. The students chose a planet, researched and wrote a paper, and made illustrations to enhance their work. The next phase of their writing unit will be creative story writing.

Center of Trenton State College is accepting registration for the first seminar in its spring Management Seminar Series.

"Management Skills for Newly Appointed Managers and Supervisors" will be given on six consecutive Wednesday evenings, March 28 through May 2 from 7-10 in the Brower Student Center on the Trenton State College campus.

Lewis Hofmann, assistant professor of management at Trenton State College and a management consultant to business and industry, will present managerial skills necessary for today's environment and will explore management styles and roles, motivational factors, communications and performance evaluation.

For registration and further information call 771-3046.

DEMONSTRATION SET

Of Orchard Pruning. Gary Mount, owner of Terhune Orchards, 330 Cold Soil Road, Lawrence Township, will give a free pruning demonstration in his orchards Saturday, March 24 at 1.

Mr. Mount is frequently asked for his advice on pruning and other cultural practices in the orchards. He has taught several classes and given numerous lectures and tours. He will demonstrate good pruning techniques and equipment that can be used on apple trees, both standard size and dwarf, peach trees, and pear trees. Mr. Mount will explain how he prunes and answer questions out in the orchards.

Everyone is welcome. Rain date is Saturday, March 31, at 1. Cider and refreshments will be served. Terhune Orchards store is open everyday 9-6. The phone number is 924-2310.

THE MAN OF LA MANCHA

In Library Reading. The Public Library will present "Readings over Coffee" on Wednesday, March 21, at 10:30 a.m. Dr. Donald Ecroyd, professor of speech, Temple University, Philadelphia, has selected Miguel Cervantes' "Don Quixote" for his presentation.

Everyone is invited to the free program. Refreshments will be served before the reading, which is made possible through the Friends of the Princeton Public Library.

RESIDENT IS HONORED

By Lawrence Black Caucus. The recently formed Lawrence Black Caucus took advantage of Black History Month to honor an area resident who has become a national figure in the ecumenical movement and in the cause of human rights and justice.

The Rev. M. William Howard Jr. was the recipient of a number of tributes and testimonials during a three-hour event held in the Lawrence Neighborhood Association building on Eggerts Crossing Road. Mr. Howard was cited, among other things, for having led the ecumenical delegation that accompanied Jesse Jackson to Syria on the successful mission to free the navy pilot being held captive.

The immediate past president of the National Council of Churches, he has been a member of several delegations abroad to promote peace and justice. In 1979 he traveled to Iran to bring Christmas to the U.S. Embassy personnel held hostage in Teheran.

Resolutions paying tribute to him were adopted by the Mercer County Board of Freeholders, the New Jersey State Assembly, and the Lawrence Township Committee and were presented by John Watson of the Assembly, Shirley K. Turner, Freeholder, and Lawrence Township Mayor Gretel Gatterdam. Fred Vereen Jr., president of the Lawrence Black Caucus, presented Mr. Howard with a photograph of himself outside an earlier Lawrence Neighborhood Center where he worked one summer while a student at

The Rev. William Howard

Princeton Theological Seminary.

The Rev. William P. Deveaux, executive director of the Fund For Theological Education and an ordained pastor in the A.M.E. Church, was the guest speaker for the occasion. Mr. Deveaux is also a Lawrence Township resident. "Poetry in Motion," a dance and poetry work was performed by The Players Company to open the afternoon activities.

Kelly Ganges of the Lawrence Black Caucus was master of ceremonies for the occasion, which was attended by many from Princeton as well as from Lawrenceville.

DEVELOPMENT OF SPACE

Topic of Symposium. A symposium, "Mankind in Space: Past Accomplishments, Future Ambitions," has been planned by the Engineering Council of Princeton University. The day-long program to be held Saturday in Kresge Auditorium is open to the public, and the $5 registration fee includes luncheon.

Representatives of industry, research and education will discuss topics such as the continuing contributions of NASA; present and projected technological advances in electric propulsion, space station design and satellites; and human factors involved in the exploration and development of space, including contributions to medical technology and projections concerning life on large-scale space stations.

The keynote address will be given by Harrison Schmitt, currently an independent space consultant. The former Apollo 17 astronaut, senator from New Mexico, and chairman of the Senate Space Committee will speak on "The Impact of Space on the History of Civilization."

To register, send your name, address and telephone number, along with the $5 registration fee, to the Princeton University Engineering Council, ACE 205 Engineering Quadrangle, Princeton 08544.

TWO TRIPS PLANNED

For Seniors. The Recreation Department is sponsoring a day trip for senior citizens to historic Philadelphia on Wednesday, April 18.

Sightseeing will include the Liberty Bell, Independence Hall, Congress Hall, the portrait gallery of the Second Bank of the United States, and the U.S. Mint. Lunch will be at the Moshulu Restaurant. The cost is $25 per person, and the deadline to register is Friday.

There is still space on the four-day excursion to the Concord Resort, June 11-14. The Concord, located in Kiemasha Lake, N.Y., has indoor and outdoor pools and tennis courts; two 18-hole golf courses; ice skating, basketball courts, bocce, horseshoes, shuffleboard, steam rooms, sauna, health club and many daily activities. The cost is $165 double room occupancy or $185 for a single room.

The cost also includes three meals daily, tips and taxes, and transportation. For additional information on these and other trips, call 921-9480.

STUDENTS IN CAPITOL

For Arms Race Lobby. Over 650 students, faculty and staff representing universities from Virginia to Vermont converged on Washington, D.C. last week to lobby their Congressional Representatives for specific legislation to slow the arms race.

The event, coordinated by a student group from Princeton University, marks a renewed level of activism on the campuses and a new approach for the nuclear disarmament movement.

The "University Lobby to End the Arms Race" started as an idle conversation between students in the Princeton University Alliance to Reverse the Arms Race (PARAR) six months ago. By last Wednesday, the effort had grown to encompass 65 schools in 14 states. Delegations travelled from as far away as Texas to meet with their House Representatives and Senators, and receive training in voter registration and lobbying techniques.

The immediate goal of the day was to line up support for the following legislative initiatives:

- Cancellation or delay in the deployment and testing of the MX Missile.
- The "Quick Freeze" — A new approach to implement the mutual, verifiable freeze on new nuclear weapons systems without long negotiations. Under the "Quick Freeze," the funds for testing and deployment of all new nuclear weapons systems would be cut off if the Soviet Union announces a similar cutoff by a specified date.
- A moratorium on the testing of Anti-Satellite and space-based Anti-Ballistic Missile weapons, renewable on reciprocal Soviet actions.

The New Jersey delegation included approximately 150 students and professors from Rutgers, Princeton, Trenton State and a number of other schools. After meeting with most of the state's 14 Representatives (or their Defense aides) in small groups, the delegation packed into a Senate committee hearing room to meet with Senator Bill Bradley, and an aide to Senator Frank Lautenberg.

THREE CLASSES PLANNED

By Cancer Unit. The Mercer County Unit of the American Cancer Society will offer a three-session course on nutrition, stress and physical fitness in cooperation with the West Windsor-Plainsboro Community Education program. The classes will meet Tuesday evenings beginning March 20.

The first session will be led by Barbara Daume, Health, Physical Education and Recreation Director of the Princeton YWCA, who will discuss how to get the greatest benefit from time spent exercising. Participants can take a computerized health risk assessment test offered by the New Jersey Hospital Association that points out ways that personal lifestyle habits can be adjusted to eliminate or minimize health risks.

Susan Wachtel, a certified nutritional counselor will discuss nurtition at the March 27 class. The new American Cancer Society statement on nutrition will be available for participants. Dale Starcher, director of the Center for Stress Control, is the scheduled speaker on April 3. This seminar will include relaxation experience and a biofeedback demonstration.

To register for the three-session course, call West Windsor-Plainsboro Community Education, 799-0200. For further information call the American Cancer Society, 394-5000.

FUND RAISER PLANNED

At Nursing Home. The Lawrenceville Nursing Home in Lawrence Township will sponsor a Rock-n-Roll Jamboree on Wednesday, March 21. Proceeds from the day of fund raising will benefit the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association.

The public is invited to come to the Home and involve themselves in the activities, which will begin at 11:30 and end at 7:30. Visitors can purchase goods from a day-long bake sale, participate in a wheelchair obstacle course, or win one of several door prizes to be awarded throughout the day.

house, subject only to financing, and that the closing will be April 1."

"It is nobody's business when our closing date is, but it is not April 1," Ms. Hill retorted, when informed of Mr. Potter's research. "I guarantee to you that the moment I close on that house I will no longer be a member of Borough Council."

Mr. Potter, who is a lawyer, says the law requires public officials to show that they actually live in a location and sleep there. In addition, they must have a "mental intention" to remain there "permanently and indefinitely."

Ms. Hill has recently started working for a yearbook photography company in Manhattan, in charge of its university and college division. She was at one time master of the graduate college at Princeton University. She and her husband, Raymond, who works in New York, have bought a house in Brooklyn — formerly a pumping station, she reports.

Ms Hill Is Not "In." "My understanding is," Mr. Potter says, "that her husband lives in Brooklyn."

He said he has tried repeatedly to reach Ms. Hill at the Hawthorne house but has not found her in. "I asked them at Borough Hall to give me her office telephone in New York, and they did.

"I called her, but she didn't want to meet with me. I urged her to see a lawyer because the law says an office shall be vacant if the office-holder does not have a permanent domicile in the community. Her job, her husband's job and his living place are all in New York.

"Even if she sells the house and rents a place in the Borough, it's not enough unless she is willing to swear she will stay 'permanently and indefinitely.'"

"We talked, but she hung up on me."

Mr. Potter said he plans to hand-deliver a letter to Ms. Hill at this Tuesday's Council meeting, outlining his views. He will hand it to her, he said, "because I'm not sure what address to send it to."

"It's Not Pleasant." He said he thought that "once she cools down and consults a lawyer, she will do the right thing. It is not a pleasant thing, either for me or for her."

She has a lawyer, Ms. Hill replied.

"I respectfully disagree with Mr. Potter's opinion," she stated. "If he or anyone else chooses to challenge my ability to serve legally as a member of Council, I'll be happy to meet them in court."

She said she has been advised that there are only two ways an official can be removed from a governing body: citizen recall or a decision by the courts.

Ms. Hill, who is Police Commissioner of the Borough, was elected to a second term on Council in November, 1982. Her successor, who must be a member of the Democratic party since Ms. Hill herself is a Democrat, will be chosen by Council from a slate of three assembled by the Borough Democratic Municipal Committee.

The Committee, whose chair is Gertrude Dubrovsky, consists of committeemen and committeewomen from each Borough district.

Barbara Hill
Home is Where The Heart Is

Sigmund Won't Speculate. Mayor Barbara Sigmund, also a Democrat, declined to speculate on whom the Committee might choose. Possible candidates are Diana Radcliff, president of the Princeton Community Democratic Organization; Pierina Thayer, who once considered running for Council; Mary Perone, who ran Mayor Sigmund's campaign, or Mrs. Dubrovsky.

Although Democrats decline to discuss the matter for publication, it is thought that Ms. Hill is persona non grata with the party.

However, Mayor Sigmund expressed regret at her departure.

"I'm sorry to lose her," the mayor said, "She is a hard-working and valuable member of Council."

Appeals

As Planning Board hearings went on, week after week, Collins did grant extensions but whether the company would be willing to do so under these circumstances is another matter.

The calendar may also decide just who happens to be sitting on Council when the appeals are heard.

Irv Urken, it was learned this week, will be on vacation from March 20 to March 31. Only last week, Mr. Urken was told that he is eligible to hear the appeals even though his hardware store is a Collins neighbor. It is over the 200-foot line and out of the conflict of interest zone, declared Mr. Bliss.

No sooner does Mr. Urken get back than Richard Macgill departs. He will be away from April 2 to 24.

Mr. Macgill has voted for Collins in the past. Mr. Urken says he will not make up his mind until he has read the material and heard the appeals.

Their absence raises a new voting question. If all six Council members hear the appeals and vote and it is a 3-3 tie, Mayor Sigmund casts the tie-breaking vote.

But if only five are voting, the land use law says, it will require four "yes" votes to affirm the Planning Board's action, reverse it, modify it or send the matter back to the board. And the votes must be by Council members themselves; the mayor does not take part in such a case.

The two teachers charged that they were transferred because they had criticized PHS Principal John Sakala for changing a student's failing gym grade to a "medically excused" grade. The student's father was, at the time, president of the school board.

The Appellate Court found that both Mr. Sakala and Superintendent Paul Houston had displayed "bad faith" in recommending the transfers to the school board.

The school board may ask to have the Appellate Division re-hear the case, or may ask the State Supreme Court to consider it. The matter was scheduled for discussion this Tuesday with board attorney William Hartigan in executive session.

Re-instatement is not all that easy, Dr. Houston said this week.

"Who settles the educational questions?" he asked. "If we re-instate them at the high school, we must move two people out. How do we decide which two? Five people in that department were moved originally, including Larry and Tom. One has now retired. Who gets the short straw?

"Also, the high school physical education program has changed. We now have Project Adventure. Larry and Tom are not trained for Project Adventure, although Tom has had preliminary training. We send all our phys. ed. teachers to Massachusetts for training in that program — safety of the students is involved."

The superintendent said he thought the case should have been sent back to Commissioner Cooperman. It was never formally argued orally, he said, only through briefs.

Regarding the "bad faith" accusation, he said the school board had had two public hearings on the transfers, and it was the board who made the transfers, not he himself nor Mr. Sakala. There has never been any implication that the board acted in bad faith, Dr. Houston said.

The two teachers have not had the formal backing of the PREA, the Princeton teachers' union. The NJEA stated that in its opinion, the board had the right to transfer them.

PEOPLE in the News

Seven Princeton University faculty members are among the 200 engineers and scientists whose selection to receive the first Presidential Young Investigator Awards has been announced by the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy.

The awards were established to address the growing faculty shortages in the highly competitive fields of engineering and science. The problem has become acute in fields such as engineering and computer sciences, but extends throughout scientific and technical disciplines. The awards are intended to help universities attract and retain outstanding young Ph.D.'s who might otherwise be lured to industry.

The seven Princeton assistant professors chosen are Daniel I. Rubenstein of biology; Robert K. Prud'homme of chemical engineering; Hector Garcia-Molina, William E. Hopkins Jr., Antoine Kahn and Stephen A. Lyon of electrical engineering and computer sciences; and Daniel M. Rosenchuck of mechanical and aerospace engineering.

The awards carry a base grant from the National Science Foundation of $25,000 per year for up to five years. NSF will also provide up to $37,500 per year to match contributions from industrial sources, bringing the possible total annual support of an individual's research activities to $100,000.

Sister Joan Magnetti, headmistress of Stuart Country Day School, has been named a director of the National Association of Independent Schools. She will serve as a director for the East until 1988.

Sister Magnetti is immediate past president of the New Jersey Association of Independent Schools.

John R. Martin, professor of art and archaeology at Princeton University, has been elected president of the College Art Association of America. He was elected to head the 8,500-member association of artists, art historians and museum professionals during its 72nd annual business meeting held in Toronto last month. He has previously served as vice-president and secretary.

Robert A. Bartolini of West Windsor Township, head of optical systems at RCA Laboratories, has been elected a Fellow of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE).

Fellow is the highest membership grade attainable in the IEEE, conferred upon "persons of outstanding and extraordinary qualifications in their particular fields." Dr. Bartolini was honored "for contributions to the development of optical recording media and systems." He is one of 132 Fellows elected in 1983 from among the IEEE's worldwide membership of over 250,000.

Dr. Bartolini joined RCA Laboratories as a member of the technical staff in 1966 and was appointed to his present position in 1983. He has received three RCA Laboratories Outstanding Achievement Awards for research contributions in developing techniques for plating masters and replicating vinyl holographic tapes; for initiative in the analysis and evaluation of optical recording materials; and for development of a high-density optical information storage system employing an injection laser.

Teresa R. Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Phillips, 38 Slayback Drive, Princeton Junction, has been inducted into Gamma Beta Phi Society, a national honor and service organization at North Carolina State University where she is a sophomore majoring in food science and biochemistry.

One of the nation's leading Rubens scholars, Prof. Martin is working on a book, "Rubens and Rembrandt," while on leave from Princeton during the 1984 spring term. A member of the Princeton faculty since 1947, he holds the Marquand Professorship of Art and Archaeology.

Dorothy A. Neceda, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Neceda of 118 Spruce Street and John Neceda of Houston, Tex., received her Bachelor of Arts in English at the University of California in Los Angeles in December. She is presently living in California.

The Eastern Psychological Association will pay tribute to Princeton University psychologist Frank A. Geldard during its annual meeting in Baltimore. A symposium, "Topics in Touch, Temperature and Visual Perception," will be held on Saturday, April 14, to honor Prof. Geldard's 80th birthday and his 56th year as an experimental psychologist.

Papers will be presented by former students and colleagues, and Prof. Geldard will present the results of his recent work on saltatory drift. Carl E. Sherrick, Jr., a lecturer in psychology at Princeton, will chair the symposium. Roger W. Cholewiak of Princeton will also participate.

An authority on the human senses, Prof. Geldard focuses his research on cutaneous communication. The Stuart Professor of Psychology, Emeritus, at Princeton, he joined the faculty in 1962 and, since retiring in 1972, has retained appointment as a senior research psychologist. Until coming to Princeton, he had taught for 34 years at the University of Virginia.

Don M. Betterton, director of financial aid at Princeton University since 1974, has been elected a trustee of the College Board.

Mr. Betterton previously served as assistant and associate director of financial aid. His office is responsible for awarding $16,000,000 in scholarships, loans and jobs to 2,500 undergraduates.

A captain in the U.S. Naval Reserve, Mr. Betterton is a 1960 magna cum laude graduate of Dartmouth College with an A.B. in History, and received his M.A. from Rutgers University.

Edgar J. Denlinger of Wheatstone Court, Princeton Junction, has been named head, signal conversion systems research, in the Television Research Laboratory at RCA Laboratories.

For the past 10 years Dr. Denlinger has been a member of the technical staff of RCA Laboratories, engaged in research on various microwave solid state devices, microwave integrated circuits, low-noise microwave receivers, and, more recently, on television receivers. He was the recipient of an RCA Laboratories Outstanding Achievement Award for development of an all-solid-state aviation weather radar. He has had five U.S. patents issued to him and is the author of more than 30 papers in professional journals.

Laura A. Curtis of 294 Western Way is the author of The Elusive Daniel Defoe published jointly by Vision Press in London and Barnes and Noble in Totowa, N.J.

She notes that Defoe is the only figure of prominence in English literature whose works remain relatively unexplored and whose intentions remain comparatively enigmatic to scholars and critics. Her previous book, The Versatile Defoe, an interdisciplinary study, was published in 1979, also in England and the U.S. It contains excerpts from Defoe's non-fiction writing on politics, economics and sociology, unavailable in 20th century editions.

Ms. Curtis hopes the publication of both books will help rectify the neglect of one of the most prolific writers in English literature. She is a lecturer in the English Department at Princeton University.

Ms. Curtis describes her book as a "consciousness study," based mainly upon Defoe's fiction and his journal in which, she argues, the peculiar ambivalence characterizing his writing results in large part from contradictory drives within the writer himself.

Six Princeton area residents received diplomas at Rider College's mid-winter commencement ceremonies.

The graduates and the degrees they received are Henry S. Tamasi, who earned a BSC in business administration, and Jane E. Senich, BA, elementary education, both of Princeton; David C. Benfer, BS, geology, and Chris T. Froehlich, BSC, management, both of Princeton Junction; Gloria B. Smith of Hopewell, MA, guidance and counseling; and Kathy L. Platz of Belle Mead, BA, elementary education.

Three area residents have been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at New Jersey Institute of Technology.

They are Kevin M. Brakel and Peter Burns, both of Princeton Junction, and Albert J. Phillips of Pennington.

Huck Fairman, son of Mrs. Polly Fairman of Mt. Lucas Road, is the co-writer, director and producer of a film that was shown on American Playhouse on TV last week and will be shown again on Saturday at 2:30. He is the son also of the late Hutchinson K. Fairman, Class of 1932 at Princeton University.

The film is entitled "Refuge" and concerns itself with four people seeking to patch up their troubled lives who are thrown together on an isolated island off the coast of Maine. Mr. Fairman has produced and directed several short dramatic films, including "Ragnarok," which received the Cine Golden Eagle Award, "Waking" and "A Dilemma."

"Refuge" is his first feature length film. Mr. Fairman's documentary credits include a film for Planned Parenthood and one for the Metropolitan Museum of Art. From 1973-1975 he worked for Aegis Productions making industrial films, and from 1974 to the present he has been editing films for Decade Media, Inc.

Donald J. Loff has joined Prudential-Bache Securities in its Princeton office in the Carnegie Center as senior vice president, investments. Mr. Loff was formerly with Merrill Lynch in the Princeton office.

Michael Bongiovanni, chairman of the Medical Products Group of Squibb Corporation, will receive the 1984 National Lifeline Achievement Award of the Cooley's Anemia Foundation at the Foundation's annual awards dinner-dance, Saturday, March 24, at the Princeton Hyatt Regency.

Mr. Bongiovanni will be honored for his outstanding contribution to his community, his profession and his country. A resident of Edgerstoune Road, he joined Squibb as a sales representative in 1946 and became division manager in 1951. Later he served as director of field operations, vice president of sales and vice president of marketing. He became president of the U.S. Pharmaceutical Company in 1972 and was appointed senior vice president five years later.

In 1981, Mr. Bongiovanni became president and chief executive officer of the Specialty Health Products Group and a member of the board of directors of Squibb Corporation.

Reuven K. Snyderman, M.D. and Adrienne Snyderman, M.S.W. have returned from a trip to Israel where they gave talks at Shaare Zedek Medical Center in Jerusalem. Dr. Snyderman spoke on "Prophylactic Mastectomy and Post Mastectomy Breast Reconstruction" while Mrs. Snyderman spoke on the "Psychological Issues for Breast Cancer Patients and Their Families."

Dr. Snyderman, a member of the attending staff at Princeton Medical Center, is also chief of the section of plastic surgery at Middlesex General University Hospital and the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey-Rutgers Medical School. He is also the principal investigator of the Breast Rehabilitation Service project which is being funded by a grant from the Hunterdon Health Fund.

Mrs. Snyderman is currently with the Princeton Family Service Agency and is a constultant for the Breast Rehabilitation Service as well as being involved in a national cancer research project.

James E. Burke of Constitution Hill, chairman of Johnson & Johnson, has been selected by Family Service America as one of two recipients of its Corporate National Distinguished Service Awards for outstanding contribution to community life.

Lindsay S. Suter, of 348 Cherry Valley Road, recently completed a two-week tour through Spain with the Hamilton College choir, stopping at Granada, Seville, Madrid, and Lerida. The group also stopped in Albany, New York City, Boston, and Amherst.

Lindsay, a sophomore, sings bass and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Suter.

Joyce Panitz of Cameron Court has been named sales director for The Hilton Inn and the National Conference Center in East Windsor.

Ms. Panitz, a Mercer County resident for 18 years, has had experience in sales and marketing at the New York Statler Hotel and in banquet and conference services at Princeton and Trenton hotels. She has attended advanced courses at Cornell University School of Hotel Management.

Robert Geddes, Kenan Professor of Architecture at Princeton University, has been selected to receive the ninth annual Award for Excellence in Architectural Education from the American Institute of Architects and the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture.

The award, honoring an educator who has taught at least 10 years and who has made outstanding contributions to architectural education, will be presented at the ACSA's annual meeting in Charleston, S.C., on March 20. Prof. Geddes will also be recognized at the 1984 AIA National Convention, May 5-9, in Phoenix.

Prof. Geddes is the second winner of the award from the Princeton University School of Architecture. In 1976, Professor of Architecture Emeritus Jean Labatut was the first recipient. Prof. Geddes was the first Dean of Princeton's School of Architecture, from 1956 until 1982. He taught architecture at the University of Pennsylvania from 1951 until coming to Princeton.

Known for his introductory lecture course for all undergraduates, not just architecture students, Prof. Geddes initiated team teaching with colleagues from the Woodrow Wilson School and the School of Engineering, which resulted in new graduate courses and seminars in physical planning and public policy. He also introduced new programs in urban studies, European cultural studies, transportation and environmental studies.

He is a partner in the Philadelphia and Princeton firm of Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham.

Derrick L. Forrister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Maddux of 80 Mercer Street and a second-year student at the Rutgers School of Law at Camden, will take a trial spin at an apellate court case.

As a participant in the Stratton Advanced Moot Court experience, an elective course designed to provide practical experience before panels of judges and practicing attorneys, he will be involved in a "case" brought against a manufacturer and its physician by a group of employees who allege the diagnoses of asbestosis was deliberately withheld.

Mr. Forrister earned his bachelor of arts degree in political science and communications. He is a former inner city minister at Liberty House in Trenton.

Elena A. Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Williams of Wheatsheaf Lane, and Rachel A. Rabinowitz, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Irving N. Rabinowitz of Glenview Drive, have been named to the Dean's List at Bates College for the first semester. Both are seniors.

Roger W. Dinella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dinella of 220 Terhune Road, has been elected president of Zeta Psi fraternity at Lafayette College, where he is a senior majoring in interdisciplinary studies.

Three area residents have been named to the Dean's List at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburg.

The students and the undergraduate college at Carnegie-Mellon in which they are enrolled are, David A. Fields, 25 Parkside Drive, a sophomore in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences; Kevin L. Steele, 55 Cherrybrook Drive, a freshman in the Carnegie Institute of Technology; and Ruth J. Ahn, 112 West Delaware Avenue, Pennington, a junior in the College of Administration and Management Science.

Rebecca Gurk, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Gurk of 26 Howe Circle, has been selected to serve as student marshall for the spring semester commencement of the College of Liberal Arts at Pennsylvania State University.

Selection of student marshall is based on scholastic record as well as participation in campus activities and honor societies. Ms. Gurk is a graduating senior.

Prof. William B. Russel of Princeton University is the 1984 Olaf A. Hougen Professor of Chemical Engineering at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. On leave from Princeton during the spring term, Prof. Russel will be in residence at UW-Madison February through August. He will work on a book on colloidal phenomena and deliver a series of lectures on "The Dynamics of Colloidal Systems."

A resident of Boudinot Street, Prof. Russel holds B.A. and M.Ch.E. degrees from Rice University, and received a Ph.D. from Stanford University in 1973. After a NATO Postdoctoral Fellowship at Cambridge University, he joined the Department of Chemical Engineering at Princeton in 1974. He was promoted to associate professor in 1979 and to professor four years later. He currently serves as director of graduate studies for his department.

David P. Billington, professor of civil engineering at Princeton University, has been appointed a Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar for 1984-85.

Prof. Billington is one of 13 visiting scholars who will travel to universities and colleges with Phi Beta Kappa chapters, spending two days on each campus. During the visits the scholars will take part in classroom and seminar discussions, meet informally with students and faculty, and give one public lecture.

A professional structural engineer, Billington is a 1950 graduate of Princeton and has been a member of the faculty here since 1960. He is the author of "Thin Shell Concrete Structures," "Robert Maillart's Bridges: The Art of Engineering" (winner of the 1979 Dexter Prize of the Society for the History of Technology), and the recently published "The Tower and the Bridge: The New Art of Structural Engineering."

BUSINESS

BIG YEAR FOR ADR

Earnings Increase 47 Percent. Applied Data Research, Inc. achieved record revenue and earnings levels for the year ended December 31.

Operating revenues were $89,086,000, an increase of 30 percent over revenues of $68,390,000 in 1982. Operating income was $12,031,000 compared to $8,386,000, a 43 percent increase. Net earnings in 1983 totaled $6,984,000 a 47 percent increase over the $4,737,000 for 1982. Finally, net earnings per share amounted to a record $1.45 compared to $1.16 in 1982.

New products, expanded customer support and increased marketing effectiveness, combined with a recovering economy in the United States, contributed to ADR's performance. In 1983, software product orders were $83,128,000, an increase of 55 percent over 1982 orders. Especially strong were database orders which more than doubled over the previous year.

John R. Bennett, chairman and president of ADR, commented that the nature of the business makes quarterly projections difficult; however, ADR expects continued growth in revenue and earnings for 1984, and has targeted revenue increases in excess of 30 percent and earnings in the range of $1.85 per share for the year.

FOR MANAGERS

Women, Men. "How Successful Women Manage," describing techniques for establishing leadership roles and achieving career advancement and job satisfaction, will be taught by Rose C. Nini, dean for continuing education at Mercer County Community College, at MCCC starting Monday, April 2. The course will be given from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

"Management of Personal Selling," for newly-appointed sales managers, will be given Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m. at MCCC starting April 4. It will cover selling strategies and effective organization.

Other courses, all offered by the American Management Associations Extension Institute in a six-week program, will be "Fundamentals of Finance and Accounting for Non-Financial Managers," "Computer Basics for Management" and "Training for Productivity."

Each course costs $150, which includes textbooks and teaching materials. Details are available from 586-9446, ext. 279.

GARDEN WINS TROPHY

At Flower Show. For the third year in a row, an exhibit by Ambleside Gardens, Route 206, Belle Mead, has won the Governor's Trophy for the best garden in the New Jersey Flower Show being held at the National Guard Armory in Morristown. The show will run through March 18.

The exhibit also received the Stanley McIntosh Trophy for best design of a small area and a special award for excellent use of water. This is the first time in the 18 year history of the flower show that one exhibitor has won for three consecutive years.

Designed to show how a small outdoor living area can be created in a natural rock garden setting, the garden includes a flagstone patio, a stone sitting wall with built-in fireplace and a natural pool. A large pine tree shelters the patio at one end while a waterfall splashes beneath a hillside of mountain laurel at the far side. More than 50 different varieties of ferns, perennials, wild flowers, dwarf rhododendron and native plants are used in the display.

FREE SEMINAR SET

On Financial Planning. Paul S. Breines, CPA, Certified Financial Planner, and syndicated financial planning columnist, will present a free financial planning seminar "Make the Most of Your Money" on Saturday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the First National Bank of Central Jersey, Route 518 at Route 206, Rocky Hill.

The seminar will cover ways for the individual to reduce income taxes, increase investment returns and achieve financial independence.

Mr. Breines is a partner in Paul Stewart Associates, a tax and financial planning firm in Princeton.

To reserve a place at the seminar, call 921-0440.

OBITUARIES

Louis Lucas, 74, of Balsam Lane, died March 9 at his home after suffering a heart attack.

Born in Hithera, Mytilene, Greece, and the youngest of eight children, Mr. Lucas immigrated to the United States in 1922. For many years he owned and operated the Lucas Stationery Store and the Blue Swan Restaurant in Plainfield. He moved to Princeton in 1958 and worked for Renwick's and the Nassau Inn.

He is survived by two sons, Ignatious Lucas of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Peter Lucas of Princeton; two daughters, Penelope Davies of Santa Barbara and Delphine Spence of Seattle, Wash.; two sisters, Phyllis Takenakos of Princeton and Zografia of Greece; 12 grandchildren; and three nieces, Yota Switzgable and Elaine Jerome, both of Princeton, and Eva Nerres of New York City.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Peter Atsales, pastor of St. George's Greek Orthodox Church, Trenton, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Carmella Cifelli Toto, 77, of Greenview Avenue, died March 10 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Pettoranello, Italy, Mrs. Toto had lived in Princeton since coming to the United States in 1931. She had been employed by Princeton Medical Center for many years. She was a member of the Altar Rosary Society and the Golden Agers of St. Paul's Church and the Princeton Senior Citizens Club.

Wife of the late Christy Toto, she is survived by two sons, Anthony C. Toto of Burlington and Joseph A. Toto of Hamilton Square; a daughter, Ann Pagliaro of East Windsor; a stepdaughter, Helen E. Rosso of East Windsor; a sister, Adelina Pinelli of Campbasso, Italy; a sister-in-law, Lucia Cifelli of Lawrenceville; and seven grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Paul's Church with burial in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Clifford B. Applegate, 79, of Fisher Place, Princeton Junction, died March 9 at Princeton Medical Center..

Born in Franklin Park, Mr. Applegate had lived in West Windsor Township since 1920. An Army veteran of World War II, he was a self-employed painting contractor. He was a member and an elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck.

Son of the late Lincoln and Carrie Applegate, he is survived by a brother, Lester D. Applegate of West Windsor, and sister, Edna N. Errickson of Pennington.

The service was held at a Cranbury funeral home, the Rev. Floyd Church, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck, officiating. Burial was in Pennington Presbyterian Church Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the Twin W First Aid Squad, Princeton Junction 08550 or to the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck at the same address.

Justin Raydo, infant son of William and Linda Levy Raydo of Albany, N.Y., died February 19 in Albany, N.Y. He was the grandson of Janet and Saul Levy of Philadelphia, recently of Princeton.

Survivors also include his brother, Ian Raydo; his paternal grandparents, Loretta and William Raydo of Syracuse, N.Y.; three uncles, Jonah Levy and James and John Raydo; and great-grandparents Mrs. Henrietta Frankel of Staten Island and Sidney Levy of Brooklyn.

A graveside service was held in Princeton Cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the March of Dimes.

A NEW PRESIDENT, A LONG HISTORY: Barbara Stahl, new president of the Princeton Ward Relief Society, assembles decorations with Vickie Clark and Annette Carter to be used at the Society's 172nd anniversary celebration.

RELIGION

TO MARK 142ND YEAR

Of Relief Society. The Princeton Ward Relief Society, a branch of one of the country's oldest women's organizations, will celebrate its 142nd anniversary with a special program Friday.

Organized in 1842, the Relief Society now has a worldwide membership of 1.6 million women, with 80 members in the Princeton area. Most also belong to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), but all women are invited to participate.

"Getting to Know You" is the theme of the birthday celebration to be held at the chapel on Alexander Road. The program will begin with a specially choreographed production number. Chairman Vickie Clark has planned skits, games and displays to highlight the varied talents of Society members. The cake baking and decorating talents of Marie Caccavella and Ellen Dragert will be sampled.

The Princeton Ward Relief Society is staffed by volunteer workers. Barbara Stahl, Belle Mead, is the newly appointed president. She is assisted by counselors Alice Fraser and Joni Prince.

The Society has an extensive program of volunteer community service, including caring for the sick and elderly, caring for families of the sick and deceased, and welcoming new women into the community.

The Society also holds weekly classes on topics such as religion, child development, social relations, home management and cultural studies.

PURIM FESTIVAL: Eve Cowen as the villain Haman and Rachel Meisel as Queen Esther reenact the story behind the holiday of Purim to be celebrated at a communal supper and costume party on Saturday at 6 p.m., in the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street. The supper will be followed by the traditional reading of the Purim story, known as the Megillah, which relates the efforts of Queen Esther and her uncle to save the Jews in ancient Persia from Haman's plan of mass destruction.

Religion in Princeton

TO MARK PURIM

With Service, Carnival. The Festival of Purim will be commemorated at the Jewish Center at a service Saturday evening at 7, beginning with the traditional reading of the Megillah or book of Esther.

Religious School children as well as preschoolers and nursery class students will join adults of the congregation at the special reading of the biblical book which describes the victory of the Jewish people over an ancient enemy named Hamen for the land of Persia. Religious School students will also present mini-dramatizations of the Festival, and refreshments will be served.

The following day, Sunday, the annual Purim Carnival will be held from 10 to 3 at the newly expanded facilities of the Center, 435 Nassau Street. There will be new games as well as the old and a variety of prizes, including two Cabbage Patch dolls. A costume parade will be held with awards for all.

The Carnival kitchen will offer delicacies including hot dogs, knishes, egg rolls, hamentashen and other items. There will be a raffle with a number of prizes, including a Head "Director" tennis racquet.

The proceeds of the Purim Carnival will benefit the Young Judae groups at the Jewish Center, enabling members to attend regional conventions and to participate in social and charitable activities. The public is invited, and there is no admission fee.

BULLETIN NOTES

John Bertalot, director of music at Trinity Church, will give a series of five weekly programs of organ music by J.S. Bach at the church, 33 Mercer Street, this Wednesday.

The first recital will feature the Toccata and Fugue in D minor, the Prelude and Fugue in B minor and the six Schubler Chorale preludes. Admission is free.

Mary 'M' ... a visit with the Magdalene," a dramatic monologue created and performed by Mary Betten, will be offered to the Princeton community at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer, on Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

All are invited. There will be no admission charge, but a freewill offering will be received to help defray expenses.

The Princeton United Methodist Church will initiate its Wednesday Vespers this Wednesday. The evening will begin with a soup and bread meal at 7 and be followed by the Vesper service at 7:45 in the chapel. Princeton Seminary students will deliver the sermon topics each week.

This Wednesday, Steven Harrison will speak on "Christ in Temptation." Next Wednesday, March 21, the Rev. Charles Mark will speak on "Christ in Prayer," "Christ in Work" and "Christ in Sorrow" will be the topics on March 28 and April 4, respectively, delived by Ian Coates and the Rev. Carl Moren. Diana Matlack will conclude the series, speaking on "Christ Through the Cross" on April 11.

A Jewish Humanist group has been formed, which emphasizes secular celebration of Jewish holidays and study and enjoyment of Jewish history and culture.

The group will meet Sunday at 3 for a Purim celebration in Holly House. If interested, call Marcia Toby at (201) 545-2615.

There will be special Lenten music during the 9:30 a.m. worship service this Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck, 154 South Mill Road, Princeton Junction.

The Buxtehude sacred cantata, "Jesus, Joy and Treasure," for choir, organ, soloists and strings will be presented. Performing will be Kathe Hannauer and Nancy Trishman, violins; John Kalajian, cello; Arlene Jones, organ; Janice Latella, soprano; Thomas E. Shaw, tenor; and Walter Upson, bass. Organ music by Buxtehude will also be played. Richard Loatman is the choir director.

NEW FIRESTONE LISTING:
SPACIOUS COLONIAL IN PRINCETON'S RIVERSIDE

Set on a lovely wooded lot on a cul-de-sac, you'll find one of Firestone's very special new listings. This charming brick and cedar shingle Colonial is enhanced by its location; private yet so convenient to Riverside school and all the spring crew races on Carnegie Lake. A wonderfully flexible layout beckons your family and friends. As you enter, the foyer leads to the congenial living room with its fireplace, the large family room, or the modern kitchen opening to a sunny breakfast room. In the summer, you'll enjoy sitting out on the private rear porch, which can be entered from either the formal dining room or the breakfast area. Upstairs, you'll find the master bedroom looking onto the woods, plus three other bedrooms (one of them is 12 x 20). We'd love to tell you more so give us a call soon. Our last Riverside listing this spring sold before the Open House. $249,500

RELO: World Leader In Relocation

Princeton Crisis Ministry Director, Carol Kerbel, Helps Alleviate the Hunger Problem in Our Area

From her office in the basement of Nassau Presbyterian Church as director of the Princeton office of the Crisis Ministry, Carol Kerbel reflects on the problem of hunger in Princeton.

Around the perimeter of the room, stacked three deep in some places, are grocery bags packed with canned and dried foods and staples. Mrs. Kerbel says she gives out around 30 bags of food a month to Princeton residents who are experiencing difficulty in making ends meet.

"Yes, hunger does exist in Princeton," she says. "If you are talking about the bloated bellies and toothpick limbs of Biafra, no, that's not the situation here, but people are hungry. I know, because they come to my office, and they wouldn't do that except as a last resort.

"It is a complex issue. It's not just that poeple don't have food. They are hungry because they have had to make difficult choices. These are people who don't have money to pay rent and utilities and have enough left at the end of the month to buy food. We encourage them to keep up with the rent and utilities and help them out if they need it on the food."

Since June, some 273 bags of food have been given out in Princeton to feed approximately 398 persons. In addition, 12 food vouchers for $50 worth of groceries have been handed out.

The Crisis Ministry's year-end report also notes that since June, 180 heads of households have been provided with resources, counseling or other services. Half of these are Princeton residents, most of the other half come from Trenton or other Mercer, Middlesex County and Pennsylvania areas. Some 32 are transients.

Supported by Churches. Founded five years ago at Nassau Church, the Crisis Ministry exists to help those who for various reasons "fall through the cracks" and are in immediate need. It works closely with the social service agencies in town and has developed into an interfaith ministry supported by nearly a dozen Princeton congregations. Many of these churches and religious organizations collect non-perishable food items for Trenton and Princeton at their weekly worship services.

In addition, 2,500 lbs. of government surplus flour, cornmeal, rice, honey and dried milk were recently made available--enough to last five months, Mrs. Kerbel says. The Crisis Ministry also has $2,000 from Federal Emergency Food and Shelter funds administered by the Mercer County Board of Social Services which she parcels out in food vouchers or in reserve at a supermarket to be used in $50 increments for food and paper goods. This fund also assists the occasional individual passing through Princeton who is in need of a hot meal at a luncheonette.

An attractive, cheerful brunette with a bright smile and traces of a southern accent, Mrs. Kerbel comes to the Crisis Ministry after serving three years as the coordinator of urban mission for five New Brunswick Episcopal Churches. After a career as a high school English teacher, she entered seminary when the Episcopal Church began ordaining women. Mother of three teenagers and wife of an airline pilot, she has chosen an outreach ministry as a permanent or vocational deacon, rather than ordination as a priest and church ministry.

She began her present job last June when the Crisis Ministry formally opened a Trenton office under the direction of the Rev. Neil Dunnavant, a Presbyterian and her predecessor in the Nassau Church basement office. The Hanover Street Ministry, as the Trenton office is called, grew out of the realization that pressing needs were compelling more and more persons to seek assistance in Princeton. At the invitation of the First Presbyterian Church in Trenton, the ministry is housed adjacent to that church on Hanover Street.

A Complex Issue. "Hunger is such a combination of factors," Mrs. Kerbel notes, "and food is really the symptom of what's going on in society. People have made other hard choices."

She speaks of clients whose situations are so marginal that if something unforseen occurs, such as car trouble with repairs needed in order to get to work, everything is thrown out of balance. The Crisis Ministry steps in with a food voucher to replace funds that go to fix the car. It will also intervene with Public Service or advise on the availability of Pharmaceutical Assistance, as do other agencies in town.

In another instance a woman, a single parent with four children, faced eviction because she was behind in her rent. In addition her job had been cut back. Mrs. Kerbel helped this mother figure out how she could eke out a rent payback schedule and gave her a couple of bags of groceries to feed her teenagers. The satisfaction in intervening in such a situation "feels pastoral," she says.

Mrs. Kerbel says she is working on "the creative 'no' " and "cutting the con." to work more humanely with people. "There are times when 'no' is the right thing to say," she notes.

Support Group. Every Wednesday representatives of each contributing church and other interested persons meet as a Crisis Ministry support group. "It is a terrific time to do some problem solving," Mrs. Kerbel says, and she appreciates the experience of the community that members of the group bring to the sessions. She feels that Princeton is rare in its sense of responsibility toward people who are in need and that Princeton has a lot to give–and not only in terms of dollars.

She points to the Trenton Soup Kitchen which has been a "learning environment" for those Princeton church members who came to work ladling soup and washing dishes and in the process learned much about why people are hungry and why hunger is such a combination of factors.

There is also an eight-week pilot tutoring program involving Princeton Day School students and the Trenton Academy sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Trenton as an outgrowth of its day care center. Vans are presently bringing young children from the Trenton Academy to learn about computers at PDS, and after four

To Feed a Family of Four

Mrs. Kerbel of the Crisis Ministry keeps a list of food items that will feed a family of four for two days. Those who want to support the food pantry of this crisis intervention service may want to clip it out and buy one or two items a week, collecting them in a special bag set aside for the purpose. When the whole list has been achieved, the bag of groceries may be brought to the Crisis Ministry office in the basement of Nassau Presbyterian Church.

- two cans each meat, vegetables, fruit and soup
- two boxes macaroni and cheese
- one box each dried soup mix and hot cereal
- one pound dried beans
- two packages powdered milk (6-7 quarts)
- one can evaporated milk
- optional: one jar peanut butter and small bottle of dish detergent

ENTER 'EQUUS'

In Players' Production. A psychological horror story, pitting a hardened psychiatrist against a teenage boy who has blinded horses with a spike, Peter Shaffer's "Equus" is regarded by many critics as one of the most important plays of the 1970s. It won the Tony Award for Best Play in 1974.

It will be given by Princeton Community Players from Thursday, March 22 through April 1 at 8 p.m. in the Mill Hill Playhouse, Trenton, featuring Churchill Clark as the psychiatrist and Joseph O'Laughlin as the tormented boy.

Behind the boy's gruesome act, lies a tale of worship and obsession, as the boy's spirit is enslaved by his imaginary god, Equus. The play follows the effect of the boy's sickness on the doctor himself.

Ralph Siegel is directing and Curt Hall is the producer. Others in the cast are June Connerton as the boy's mother, Milton Koosman as his father, Felisa Tibbitts as the stable girl who introduces the boy to horses and Lelia Matthews as the magistrate who keeps the boy from going to prison.

Tickets, at $6, may be reserved by calling 921-6314 or 989-3037. The Playhouse is at Front and Montgomery Streets, two blocks from the Front Street exit of the Route One Trenton Freeway.

NEW PLAY BY OATES

In New York. A new play, "Presque Isle," by Joyce Carol Oates will be given in preview next Thursday, March 22 at the Theater of the Open Eye, 316 E. 88th Street, New York, under the direction of Princeton resident Sallie Brophy.

Producers of the Theater of the Open Eye are former Princeton residents Amie Brockway and Jean Erdman. Ms. Oates is on the Princeton University faculty.

"Presque Isle" takes place in a summer cottage on the Maine coast and explores the emotions of a mother and daughter as they cope with crises in their separate lives. It is described by theatre publicity as "a drama of conflict with a heaping helping of humor."

After playing in preview through Sunday, March 25, "Presque Isle" will open Monday, March 26 at 8 p.m., playing Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Mondays at 8; Saturdays and Sundays also at 3, through April 16.

Tickets, at $10, may be reserved by calling 212-534-6909.

SHE'S 'EVERYWOMAN'

Actress, in Fund-raiser. The actress has been called "a female Hal Holbrook," with her one-woman show that celebrates every-woman. Tulis McCall will present "What Everywoman Knows" on Saturday, April 21 at 8:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Church as a fund-raiser for the Mercer Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Combining historical research and acting skill, Ms. McCall presents portraits of such women as Nelly Bly, Jane Hickok, Margaret Sanger, Sojuourner Truth, Harriet Tubman and Katharine Hepburn's mother.

Those who have seen "What Everywoman Knows" have said that Ms. McCall portrays her subjects "with humor, wit and sensitivity," and presents a "good show for men as well as women."

Sponsors include Joan Bartl, Geraldine and Rowan Boone, Margaret and William Broadwater, Leigh and Henry Bienen, Natalie and Chandler Davis, Evelyn and Robert Geddes.

WE READ A PLAY

"Bok." The rise and fall of Jean-Bedel Bokassa (Bok) and the process of Westernization is the theme of "Bok," a new play by Alan Jolis which will be read next Monday at Princeton Inn College in the Playwrights-at-McCarter series.

It will be given at 7:30 in PIC's basement theatre space. Admission is free and refreshments are served at intermission. After the reading, the audience is invited to stay and talk with playwright, director and actors.

Playwrights-at-McCarter is designed to give new playwrights a place where their works may be performed, and a chance to hear what the audience thinks. A grant from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation funds the enterprise, now in its seventh season.

MOVIE TIME

"Living Dangerously," It's 1965 in Indonesia as the Sukarno government heads toward its demise. "The Year of Living Dangerously" will be shown next Monday through Wednesday at 7:30 and 9:30 in Kresge Auditorium on the Movies-from-McCarter agenda.

Mel Gibson plays an ambitious journalist exploiting the volatile situation. Sigourney Weaver is the young Briton with whom he falls in love and who passes on to him the secrets she has access to in the British embassy. Linda Hunt plays the half-Chinese-half-Australian midget photographer who becomes the reporter's partner.

The film, says McCarter, "captures the confusion and terror of Western man confronting the squalor of a depressed and explosive Eastern civilization."

MUSIC

B MINOR MASS SET

By Choral Group. The Princeton Pro Musica will present the Mass in B Minor by J.S. Bach on Sunday, March 18, at 3 p.m. at the War Memorial Auditorium in Trenton. The chorus and orchestra will be conducted by Frances Slade, with soloists Anne Ackley, soprano; Lindsey Christiansen, mezzo-soprano; Douglas Perry, tenor; and David Arnold, baritone.

David Arnold made his Metropolitan Opera debut last spring and has performed leading roles with many other opera companies. He has been a soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under Seiji Ozawa, for six seasons.

Douglas Perry, tenor, sings regularly with the New York City Opera and has sung with every major opera company in the United States. He made his European debut with the Netherlands Opera. Mr. Perry appeared with the Princeton Pro Musica in Handel's Messiah in 1982.

Mezzo-soprano Lindsey Christiansen is a member of the voice faculty at Westminster Choir College. She performs regularly in the area, most recently in Bach's St. Matthew Passion and in the International Heinrich Schutz Festival at the Choir College.

Soprano Anne Ackley, also a member of the Westminster Choir College faculty, has been soloist with the San Francisco Opera Company, the New York Schola Cantorum, the American Bach Society, and the American Chamber Ensemble. Recently she sang in the International Schutz Festival and in Honegger's King David with the Shrewsbury Chorale.

Anne Ackley

Tickets are $8 and $6 for students and senior citizens. They are available at the Princeton University Store; the Music Cellar, Princeton Shopping Center; and the Arts Council of Princeton, 102 Witherspoon Street. Tickets may be ordered by calling 586-5192. Group rates are also available.

The Princeton Pro Musica has received funding from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

PHS ALUMNA HERE

For Piano Recital. Deborah Gilwood, pianist, will give a concert on Saturday, March 24 at 8:30 p.m. in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, admission is free.

A graduate of Princeton High School, Miss Gilwood received her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from SUNY at Purchase and Master of Music degree from SUNY at Stony Brook in 1980. Her teachers have been Richard Goode, Gilbert Kalish, Aube Tzerko, Lucy Green and Sylvia Nichols of Princeton.

Now a resident of New York, Miss Gilwood has given concerts in both solo and chamber music throughout the metropolitan area and has participated in the music festivals at Sarasota, Aspen and Tanglewood. During the summer of 1982 she was the pianist for Joseph Papp's production of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," given in Central Park.

The program will include, Schubert, "Moments Musicaux;" Ravel, "Valses Nobles et Sentimentales;" Beethoven, Sonata in E Flat, Opus 31, No. 3; Copland, "Night Thoughts" (1972) and Ives, "3-Page Sonata (1905).

Richard Goode

PIANIST TO PLAY

In University Series. Richard Goode, pianist, will appear in Princeton on Monday in the Princeton University Concerts "Virtuosi in Recital" series at 8 p.m. at McCarter Theatre.

A native New Yorker, Mr. Goode studied at the Mannes School and the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. He is a founding member of the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center and appeared with them regularly for ten years before embarking on a solo career. He is the winner of many awards, including the 1980 Avery Fisher Prize and first prize in the Clara Haskill Piano Competition in Switzerland.

In addition to his solo recitals, Mr. Goode performs regularly in chamber music ensembles, with quartets, singer and instrumentalists. He often appears as soloist with the major orchestras of the U.S. and Europe and has toured extensively. In addition to his RCA Brahms recording for which he won a Grammy Award, Mr. Goode has made numerous records, including Mozart concerti with the Orpheus Chamber Orchestra.

Mr. Goode's program will include Beethoven, Sonatina in G Major, Opus 79; Sonata in D Major, Opus 28 ("Pastorale"); Sonata in C-Sharp Minor, Opus 27, No. 2 (the "Moonlight"); George Perle: Ballade (1951) and Schumann's "Davidsbundlertanze, Opus 6."

Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office, 452-5200, and student "rush" tickets will be sold on the day of the concert.

Music in Princeton

Sunday, March 25, at 2 in the Kirby Arts Center of the Lawrenceville School.

With the help of Magnolia the ostrich, Shanel No. 5 the skunk, Mr. Pennywhistle the bird who can't whistle, and Wembly the stork, the mother and son team will present their film "For the Love of Fred." Musical selections from the film's score, a combination of classical, popular, jazz, and folk, will be demonstrated by the MCSO Symphonette, a chamber group from the larger orchestra, and the Princeton Children's Choir, a 17-member singing group of children between the ages of 8 and 12.

The theme of this year's concert, entitled "Music Tells the Story," centers on how emotions are expressed through music. Music from the sound track will be reproduced by instruments and voices, and the music's effect on mood explained by the Ritts puppets. In the struggle of Fred the caterpillar to form a cocoon and eventually emerge from it as a beautiful butterfly, the Ritts film shows the developing of an individual's full potential.

Tickets, at $2 for children and $3 for adults, may be reserved by calling Linda Tsui at 924-3786 or may be purchased at the door.

ANDEAN FOLK MUSIC

At University. The South American group "Tahuantinsuyo" will give a performance of Andean folk music Sunday, March 25, at 8 in the auditorium of the School of Architecture at Princeton University.

Tahuantinsuyo, the name the Incas gave to their empire, was chosen for the group by its three members, Pepe Santana from Ecuador, Guillermo Guerrero from Peru, and Alcides Loza from Bolivia. Dedicated to researching and performing authentic music from the highlands of Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Chile and Argentina, the group has made several major concert appearances and an album on Adelphi Records.

Organized by the Princeton University International Center and co-sponsored by Stevenson Hall, the Department of Anthropology and the Dean of Students, the performance will be free of charge.

Engagements and Weddings

ENGAGEMENTS

O'Donnell-Daunais. Patricia O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. O'Donnell of West Trenton, to Peter A. Daunais, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Daunais of West Windsor.

Miss O'Donnell is a graduate of Notre Dame High School and Glassboro State College. She is employed as a teacher at Better Beginnings Child Development Center in East Windsor. Her fiance, an alumnus of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School and the University of Delaware, is an engineer for Johnson & Johnson.

An October wedding is planned.

Fischer-Elgrim. Diane A. Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fischer of Skillman, to Eugene A. Elgrim Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Elgrim Sr. of Allentown.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Montgomery High School and is employed by the Princeton Hyatt Regency. Her fiance, a graduate of Allentown High School and Mercer County Community College, is employed by the Ramada Inn, Princeton.

A spring wedding is planned.

WEDDINGS

Kuschner-Haring. Andrea L. Haring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Jack Haring of Grover's Mill, West Windsor, to Jason C. Kuschner, son of Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Kuschner of Huntington, N.Y.; March 11 at the United Nations Chapel in New York City, the Rev. Richard Leonard, pastor of All Souls Unitarian Church, Manhattan, officiating.

Andrea L. Haring

The bride, who will retain her name, is an actress and a visiting assistant professor in the Drama Department at Dartmouth College. She is a graduate of Princeton High School and Smith College and is a founding member of Shakespeare & Company, an English and American theatrical repertory company in Lenox, Mass.

The bridgeroom, also an actor and an assistant director of stage combat, atended the United Nations School and Riverdale Country Day School. He is a graduate of Friends Academy in Locust Valley, Long Island, and Dartmouth College.

Area Craftswoman Turns to Dollmaking In Culmination of Lifetime Skill in Sewing

Marjorie Mertz, the dollmaker.

After three decades as a homemaker, this energetic and attractive mother of four grown children, who has been sewing since she was 18, has turned her considerable skill with needle and thread into making dolls. Dolls which she believes the ideal doll should look like.

MARJORIE MERTZ AND BABIES: Marjorie Mertz sits with some of the baby dolls she has made at her home on Skyfield Drive. She tells how she got started in an article this page.

"A doll has to be loveable," insists Mrs. Mertz. "I wanted to make something you can like after the doll is done; I didn't want to make something ugly." She readily agreed that Cabbage Patch dolls to some people are loveable and that there is no accounting for taste — not even in dolls.

Although a doll is probably the most enduring of all toys, it has been subject to change — from Raggedy Ann to Barbie to Cabbage Patch. Currently, the old-fashioned, cuddly doll is in vogue, led, of course, by three million Cabbage Patch dolls made by Coleco last year and the attendant Cabbage Patch stories.

Using needle and thread, Mrs. Mertz "sculpts" material into what she feels a doll should look like. "It's very cuddly, like holding a newborn baby," she said, as she offered one of her creations for inspection. "A baby that doesn't cry — or doesn't wet or need to be fed," she laughs. Her quick laugh comes easily and often.

At her home on Skyfield Drive, she makes dolls in two sizes: 22 and 18 inches. Just recently she has added a 14-inch "preemie," with a diaper, baby sacque and blanket. Dolls can be custom ordered, she says, (two to three weeks notice) and customers can pick the sex, color of hair and eyes, and style of clothing.

Each doll is numbered and signed on the bottom of one of the feet. Each comes with a certificate for the foster parents bearing the name of the doll, the recipient, and the date it was received — all done in caligraphy by her daughter Susan.

"The parents can choose the name but if they don't, I'll name it," says Mrs. Mertz. "It's all part of the pattern."

Most of her customers, she finds, are adults and most of those are friends who have seen the dolls. "I haven't advertised them yet — I've been too busy — but a few are on display at The Master's Design craft shop on Olden Avenue in Trenton."

Customers who buy her dolls, she adds, say they are buying them now and saving them — they claim — for their grandchildren. Another reaction: those who have bought them to give away didn't want to give them up, she said. "I think I have sold only one to a child."

Right now, she has a room set aside in her house and is ready to increase production if the demand continues. She has made more than two dozen dolls so far and probably the most difficult part, even for her, is letting them go. "You do get attached to them," she smiled.

How long does it take to make a doll? If she is in a hurry, replies Mrs. Mertz, she can finish a doll in two days, including clothes.

"Usually, I do a bunch at once — four large and four small," she says, "and I usually do the same thing at once. Some days I'll just make clothes; the next day something different." Like painting 16 eyeballs.

She spends a lot of time painting the eyes and mouth, she says, because she feels the face is the most important part of the doll. "People have commented so much on the face and the eyes ... that it looks so realistic. If the face doesn't look right the doll won't. The face is what they want to see."

She makes all the clothes for her 18-inch dolls because she can't buy anything that small in a store. Six-month size clothing will fit the 22-inch size. Although she prefers making her own clothing, Mrs. Mertz admits, "Some outfits I see in a store I just know will go with a doll I'm making."

Girls are dressed bloomers, a slip, a dress, socks and, usually, black patent leather Maryjane shoes. For boys, the usual costume is underwear, jeans or overalls, a shirt and running shoes or ties. One of the hardest items to find, she says, are cowboy boots small enough to fit.

She told a story of shopping in a children's store for a pair of shoes and asking the clerk if she could try them on. "When the clerk said yes," recalled Mrs. Mertz, "I whipped a doll out of my bag and tried them on. The clerk was aghast. 'Won't she suffocate?' she asked. I told her, no, that I didn't use a plastic bag."

That is not nearly as extreme, she insists, as the stories surrounding the first Cabbage Patch dolls and their orginator, Xavier Roberts of Cleveland, Georgia. "He's the one that has a hospital in Atlanta for tranfusions. And if you laugh they send you out of the room."

Her interest in making dolls was sparked, she said, last spring before the Cabbage Patch craze, when she saw a pattern in a book. "It was something different and I tried it," she said.

The first pair of dolls she made she didn't like. It went slowly, she said. The second pair she altered and they were more to her liking. The third pair evolved into the pattern she is now using.

Cutting and stuffing a doll is easy. But sculpting a doll, giving it its unique features — "that's where the fun is, where the skill is required. Sculpting is a lot of work!"

She intends, she revealed, to start a class — limited to three — for members of her church craft group. "It will be a learning experience for everyone," she laughed. "I showed them a before-and-after stage and they couldn't believe how ugly a doll is when you first begin."

Ready For Adoption

She starts by cutting a pattern for the body from double knit material (so it won't run) which is available in stores in several skin tones. Next she paints on the eyes and mouth. Then she begins to assemble the body by stuffing it with a polyester fill and sculpting it.

The ears have a piece of material that has to be sewn on the inside, she explained. Channels are then stitched on a machine and filled to give them shape. Coming up from under the chin, Mrs. Mertz then uses needle and thread to sculpt the nose, giving a flare to the nostrils and then shaping the mouth.

The fingers are sewn on a machine and filled. Each finger and thumb, the palm and back of the hand are then given a couple of hand-sewn stitches for shaping. Likewise the toes. A few more stitches form a dimple at the knee. A few more shaping stitches on the tush, add a bellybutton and the doll is ready for its final stuffing. Now the decision of whether it is to be a boy or a girl.

Mrs. Mertz fashions the hair from various styles of yarn and sews it to the skull. Girls get pigtails or a pony tail; boys, short, curly hair.

Not only is the finished product lifelike, it is pliable. When her husband, Doug, complained that one doll looked bowlegged, Mrs. Mertz merely took the legs in her hands and straightened them. A few stiff taps eliminated a pair of fat cheeks.

You won't find anything like them in a store," insists Mrs. Mertz. "They are a throwback to the way dolls used to be hand made."

Mrs. Mertz has been sewing since the eighth grade. "I just enjoy it; it came naturally to me. I like to try different things," she said.

Her mother ran a foster home, and whenever anyone needed a sunsuit, or a dress or a pair of pants, she made it for them, she recalled. She started at home as a dressmaker and did alterations. When she got married, she made all the clothes for her family — at first out of necessity, she said. "I never buy anything out."

Wedding gowns, too? "Oh, yes. I couldn't even tell you how many I've made. Wedding gowns and dresses for the wedding party. The whole thing.

Versatile, she also makes drapes and slipcovers, knits, does needle point, crewel — "I've tried just about everything except tatting (handmade lace)" she said. "I draw the line on that. It's real, real fine and I don't have the patience for that."

How long she continues to make dolls will depend, says Mrs. Mertz, on the response. She intends to stay with it through the summer and will take her sewing machine along while she spends July in New Hampshire.

"I'm not looking to support myself," she adds. "If people buy them, fine, but I'm not going to keep making them until my house is full of dolls."

DON'T START ANOTHER DIET TILL YOU CHECK WITH DIET CENTER!

Their Program WORKS And It's TOTALLY NATURAL!

At 5'4" and 195 pounds, I was about ready to throw in the towel. I had tried to lose weight but nothing seemed to work. Then I checked with Diet Center. In that first introductory consultation, I knew I had found the answer! The diet was great and I was never hungry or moody as I had been before. But the real difference was the daily support from a counselor who really cares and understands.
I LOST 75 POUNDS IN JUST 24 WEEKS!
Now I can't pass a mirror or a store window without stopping to look at myself ... and I like what I see, a whole new me! My family and friends are so proud of my success and my entire outlook on life is great! I agreed to tell my story in advertising her cause I know what it is like to try to lose weight, to fail and to blame myself for it. Now I know that on the right program anybody can lose weight, and Diet Center has the right program!

ART

TIME TO REGISTER

For PAA Classes. Four years is not too young to begin, in the view of the Princeton Art Association. In "Young Art," for ages four-six, Eve Kaplan will encourage children to work in painting, drawing and sculpture, helping them to become aware of color, texture and shape.

The class will be given Thursdays from 3:30 to 4:30 at the PAA's Rosedale Road studios. Fee is $38 for families who are not members of the PAA, $35 for member families.

At the other end of the age spectrum, the PAA offers Joanne Augustine's course, "Painting for Senior Adults." It will be given Fridays from 1 to 3:30 for a $35 fee.

Older young people (ages 12-15) are invited to "Introduction to Color," "Beginning Drawing" and "Continuing Drawing," all with Jean Lindabury.

For adults, print-maker Marie Sturken will teach "Monotype Printmaking," in which the processes of drawing, painting and printmaking are combined. No print-making experience is necessary. The class will be held Mondays from 10 to 1.

Lee Harr will teach portrait drawing and painting from 1-4 Mondays, and Elizabeth Ruggles will give a Monday course on painting with oils and acrylics. Mary Yess will give a beginner's course in drawing and Jacques Fabert will continue with "Drawing II".

For graphic designers and illustrators, Fred Kraus will give a seminar on illustration and design. This evening class — 7 to 10 — has certain prerequisites or Mr. Kraus' permission.

Among the watercolor courses is an introduction for the beginner, figure painting for the more advanced (both with Linda Lombardi) and "Creative Watercolor" with Joanne Augustine.

Joan Needham will teach papermaking for both beginners and those who have worked with paper before. John Carbone will teach clay modeling from the nude, and Stephen Kennedy will give a class in painting, concentrating on nature.

Advanced students may sign up for evening and Sunday life workshops where artists work from a nude model. No formal teaching or criticism is provided.

———

Off the Rosedale campus, Betty Ruth Curtiss will teach Xerography, working with a Xerox color copier in the Triangle Repro Centers at Hulfish Street or Route One.

Marie Sturken will teach aluminum plate lithography at her studio and Jane Eccles will teach etching — beginning and advanced — at her own studio.

Mairi MacInnes, Princeton poet and literary critic, will present a talk on "Three Classic Wives: 19th Century English Women Authors Living and Writing Abroad." The lecture, sponsored by the Princeton Research Forum, will be given on Wednesday, March 21, at 8 in Bowl 6 of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School. It is free and open to the public.

Ms. MacInnes will discuss the lives and works of three 19th century English women writers, each of whom married a foreigner, moved abroad, and produced minor classics of literature. The three writers are: Frances Inglis Calderon de la Barca, who wrote "Life in Mexico" (1843); Frances Ann Kemble, author of "Journal of a Residence on a Georgian Plantation in 1838-1839" (1863); and "Elizabeth," the pseudonymous author of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden" (1898).

Ms. MacInnes is the recent recipient of a National Endowment for the Arts Creative Writing Fellowship Grant, which will allow her to spend next year writing poetry. In addition to the NEA grant, she has received a New Jersey Council on the Arts Fellowship in Poetry and a Witter Bynner - MacDowell Fellowship this year.

The club's guest will be Craig Courtney of Berkeley, Calif., a Princeton undergraduate who won the regional award last year in the West. This year's winner, Whitney B. Ross of Princeton Day School, will be honored at the same dinner.

Candidates are judged on the basis of their contribution to family, school and neighborhood. This is not a scholarship, but an award of merit to be used by the recipient to further his or her aims and purposes.

Whitney Ross has logged many volunteer hours in the Princeton community serving on the YWCA Teen Council, working on special projects for the Princeton Art Society, enlisting as a founding member of Safe Rides, and assisting at weekly drug and alcohol sessions at Corner House. At school she worked for class projects and won acclaim for her chairmanship of the junior-senior prom.

EXHIBITS

Photographs taken in Japan by Princeton photographer Clem Fiori are on exhibit at the Present Day Club, 72 Stockton. The 33 photographs, taken during a three-week stay in Japan in 1975, are of cities, towns and villages. The exhibit, which will remain through March, is open to the public weekdays from 9 to noon.

———

"Spring Crafts at Princeton," a juried show displaying the work of jewelers, potters, woodworkers, leatherworkers, weavers, photographers and printmakers, will be at Princeton Day School March 24-25 from 11 to 6 each day. The exhibit is presented by Rose Squared Productions, Inc., craft promoters.

———

Oils and drawings by Catherine Louis will be on view at the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street, from Friday, March 23 through April 20. (Reception March 23, 5-7.) Ms. Louis exhibited at the 1983 New Jersey State Museum Biennial Exhibition and won a merit award in the "Landscapes" exhibtion at Mercer County Community College.

Jeanne Pasley, Princeton sculptor, and Richard Kemble, Washington Crossing printmaker, will exhibit at Full House Gallery in Kingston from this Friday through April 6. (Reception Friday, 5 to 8.) Ms. Pasley, who studied with Dorothea Greenbaum and has worked with the Johnson Atelier, has sculpture in the permanent collections of the Ponce Museum, Ponce, P.R., the University of Puerto Rico and Educational Testing Service. Mr. Kemble is represented in the permanent collections of the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton and the Graphic Arts Division of Firestone Library, Princeton University.

A demonstration of palette knife techniques will be given this Saturday from 2 to 4 at Art Masters Gallery, 44 Spring Street, by New York artist Jarvis Wilcox.

———

Art teachers from The Hun School, Princeton Day School, Hopewell Valley Regional High School and West Windsor-Plainsboro High School are among teachers from 15 schools now exhibiting their work in the Library Gallery, Mercer County Community College, West Windsor.

weeks PDS students will go to Trenton to teach language arts skills at the Academy.

Mrs. Kerbel herself works at the Hanover Street Ministry one day a week, and the support group is constantly wrestling with how to make Princeton expertise more available to Trenton.

Bread for the Peanut Butter. Mrs. Kerbel brings humor and common sense to her job. Before handing out bags of groceries that have been prepacked by girl scouts with quantities and items to feed a family of four she asks what the cooking facilities are. There are those who wouldn't know what to do with cornmeal, for instance, and those who will eat donated canned ravioli right out of the can. She keeps hand operated can openers handy for the latter.

"We try to be careful not to give out things that will be thrown out," she says. The Crisis Ministry office now has a freezer in which she can keep bread. "We'd have peanut butter and nothing to put it on."

PHC WINS CHAMPIONSHIP With 8-2 Victory. It had not beaten Bedford either time the two teams met during the regular season, (a 4-3 loss and 5-5 tie) but with the championship on the line Sunday morning in Baker Rink, the Princeton Hockey Club was more than equal to the task.

Sparked by good, solid team play, not always in evidence on the "cocktail circuit," PHC blew out Bedford, 8-2, before a sparse but appreciative group of wives, girlfriends, children and other assorted relatives and friends. The victory gave PHC possession for another year of the F. Skip Farrington trophy, an imposing piece, that makes the Stanley Cup look like a tin can.

And when it was all over, the ageless John Cook, the oldest player on the team at 42, summed up the win fairly succinctly: "We always rise to the occasion."

And rise they did, under the masterful direction of coach Aubrey Houston, the Princeton skaters pulled away from an early 1-1 tie, and led 3-1 at the end of the first period. By the end of two, the lead had ballooned to 6-1, the final tally coming at the buzzer.

Mindful of a 5-1 lead that disappeared against Bedford earlier in the season, resulting in a tie at the end, PHC did not let up in the final frame. It scored twice more, and allowed the visitors, only one more goal on a power play.

Mike Reynolds led the scoring with a hat trick, Bob Plumb had a pair of goals, and Dudley Fitzpatrick, Mark Zawadsky and Richie McLaughlin, one apiece. Meanwhile, at the other end of the ice, the fine goaltending of Chris Burchfield, kept Bedford from making a game out of it.

PHC, which finished first with a record of 5-2-1, won its second consecutive title, and eighth in the last nine years. Essex broke the streak in 1982, the only time in recent memory that PHC has not risen to the occasion.

Other team players include Scott Reed, Peter Lawson-Johnston, Al Fitzpatrick, Coley Donaldson, Steve Dagdigian, Larry Sanford, Jimmy Rodgers, Buff Burchfield, Eric Monberg and Billy Erdman.

TWO LOSSES AT START For Tiger Baseball Team. The temperatures are a good deal higher than they are here, but the Princeton baseball team has yet to warm up, losing its first two contests on its Florida trip.

Last Saturday, the Tigers lost their season's opener, 5-4, to East Carolina, and Monday afternoon they were routed, 10-4, by Creighton. The Monday game was part of the Rollins Tournament that will continue this week.

The Orange and Black was scheduled to play the host team Tuesday afternoon, two games Wednesday against Maryland and Stetson, another game against Creighton on Thursday; Rollins again Friday, and Maryland Saturday. On Sunday, the team will play at Jacksonville.

Creighton College is located in Nebraska, but its batters were in mid-season form against Princeton pitching, socking four home runs en route to their victory. The winners never trailed in this one, rapping out 15 hits off three Tiger hurlers.

Creighton built a 4-0 lead off of Dan Arendas, Princeton's starting pitcher, who was charged with the loss. He was relieved by Ed Aulisi who gave up four more. Scott LaForest finished up, and allowed two more runs in the bottom of the eighth.

Arendas had better luck with his bat, getting four hits, and freshman Todd Tuckner continued his impressive showing with four safeties, one a home run. Princeton had the misfortune to hit into three double plays that effectively ended promising rallies.

Opening Game Loss. In the season's opener against East Carolina, the Tigers held an early 2-0 lead, scoring twice in the third inning. Mark Goldenberg singled with one out, and advanced to third when Arendas was safe on an error.

Freshman Todd Tuckner doubled home one run, and sophomore Henry Kolowrat singled Arendas with the second. That held up until the fifth when the home team scored three times.

The Orange and Black managed to tie it at 3-3 in the top of the seventh when Arendas doubled home Todd Leavitt, who had singled and gone to second on a passed ball. However, East Carolina tallied the winning runs in the bottom of the same inning off losing pitcher Scott LaForest. Bill Beard pitched the first six.

Freshman Drew Stratton scored in the eighth for Princeton, to make it 5-4.

TIGERS LOSE OPENER In Lacrosse. Neither the Princeton lacrosse team or anybody around here who might have wanted to watch it play had much success last weekend.

The Tigers lost their season's opener to Hofstra, 13-7, Sunday afternoon, and contrary to what was announced in advance, it was played in Hempstead, Long Island.

After Friday's snowstorm, the game was moved from Saturday to Sunday, and the location changed to the field on Washington Road, across Lake Carnegie. At some point over the weekend, it was decided to move the game to Hofstra's astroturf, to provide a better playing surface, but the word never got out on that move.

By halftime, Princeton would probably have been happier playing in two to three feet of snow; the Tigers were down 9-0. They rallied to outscore the home team, 7-4, in the final two periods, but that left them on the short end of the 13-7 final score.

Junior midfielder Bill Donahue led the Orange and Black with two goals. Rick Kirscher, David Chang, John Lurie, Paul Faber and Dave Kopp had one apiece. Chris Corcoran started in goal for the Tigers and made six saves. His replacement Tim Krongard had two. Princeton outshot the winners, 38 to 37.

This Wednesday, the Tigers will travel to Baltimore to face a tough UMBC club that lost to John Hopkins by only two goals, 10-8, over the weekend. Army is scheduled here this Sunday at two on Poe Field, but it wouldn't hurt to call the "fan phone" (452-3545) and double check.

Only 2 men in history played on a team that won the NCAA basketball tournament — and then coached a team that won that tournament ... They are Dean Smith and Bobby Knight ... Smith played for Kansas when they won the 1952 championship, and then coached North Carolina to the 1982 title ... Knight played for the Ohio State championship team of 1960 and then coached Indiana to NCAA titles in 1976 and 1981.

I bet you didn't know ... that many health insurance plans including Blue Cross-Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

Did you know that one of the greatest golfers of all time, Bobby Jones, NEVER accepted any money for winning a golf tournament in his life ... Jones, who won the U.S. Open 4 times, and won many other tournaments, remained an amateur in golf throughout his great career.

ABRECHT IS NAMED

Second-Team All-Ivy. Princeton's sophomore defenseman Cliff Abrecht was the lone Tiger hockey player receiving any kind of all-Ivy mention in voting by the league's head coaches.

Abrecht was named to the second team, along with another sophomore defenseman, Mike Schaefer of Cornell. Harvard, Yale and Cornell dominated the first team selections, placing two men each on the top unit.

These included sophomore goalie Grant Blair and senior defenseman Ken Code from Harvard; sophomore and senior forwards Duanne Moeser and Geoff Dervin from Cornell; and sophomore forward Bob Logan and junior defenseman Peter Sawkins from Yale.

On a somewhat expanded second team, Brown placed two players, including goalie John Franzosa, Yale, two; Harvard, two; and Cornell, two. Dartmouth was the only team not represented on either team or by honorable mention.

Moeser was the league's top scorer with 32 points on 11 goals and 21 assists. He was followed by two Big Red teammates, junior center Gary Cullen with 22 points, and Dervin with 20. The next highest scorer in the league had 12 points. Abrecht and freshman forward Jon Rocco led Princeton with 10 points apiece.

In the goaltending department, Harvard's Blair had a fine 1.96 goals-against average in nine games. Yale senior Paul Tortorella finished second. The Tigers' Wally McDonough finished seventh with a 4.46 average.

Finishing with 14 points, Harvard and Cornell tied for the title for the second consecutive year, only the second time in 46 years there has been a deadlock. On the basis of its better ECAC Division I record, the Crimson advanced to the playoffs in Boston, but was eliminated.

NAUTILUS TEAM SECOND

In Soccer Playoff. The Princeton Nautilus girls soccer team finished second in the Mercer County Women's Unlimited Soccer League when it lost a hotly contested playoff game to Joe's Mill Hill Tavern.

After regular play and two overtime periods, the score was still knotted at 1-1. The outcome was then decided on a penalty kick score of 4-3 which gave the championship to Joe's. Nautilus was the only team to defeat Joe's Mill during the regular season, defeating the champions, 3-1.

Starting with only 11 players, coaches Norton Parker and Jeff Petrone guided Nautilus to a 13-5-3 record and third place in the regular season standings. The team got off to a slow start, losing two and tying one in its first three outings but then came on and ended its regular season with a 3-1 victory over Mike's Tavern of Princeton.

Tracy Parker was high scorer with 14 goals, followed by Sherri Sheppard with 11 and Cathy Arcaro with 10. A solid defense, a strong factor in many of Nautilus's wins, was led by fullbacks Karen Parker and Cindy Lucash and goalie Lucy Baruch.

Other starters on the team are Libby Bahr, Darlene Abagnale, Carol Raymond, Karen Reid, Alice Koniges, Cindy Hines, Lisa Robbins, Brett Wilson, Denise King and Sharon Tufano.

PLAY BALL

With Softball League. The organizational meetings for the Recreation Department's 1984 men's and women's softball leagues have been scheduled. The women's softball league meeting will be Thursday, March 22, at 7:30.

Teams interested in participating in a league during 1984 should be represented at this meeting.

CLASSES LISTED

In Spring Tennis. The Princeton Community Tennis Program's brochure listing spring classes and activities has been mailed. Tennis enthusiasts in the area who do not receive a copy should call the tennis office at 924-4343.

Starting April 2, PCTP will offer eight weeks of outdoor lessons for juniors and adults in the evenings. Adult daytime classes will meet twice a week for four weeks, beginning April 23. There is group instruction available for all levels from beginner through advanced.

PASSES AVAILABLE

At County Tennis Center. The Mercer County Park Commission will again offer season passes for its 26-court outdoor tennis center in Mercer County Park.

Season passes and I.D. cards for juniors and seniors will be available beginning Thursday at the Tennis Center. Hours on weekdays will be from 12 noon to 7 and on weekends from 9 to 5.

The Center will officially open on March 31, and will then be open seven days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

The Park Commission will also sponsor a summer league beginning in June for men, women and juniors of all levels. Applications for the eight-week league will be available March 31.

For further information on lessons, season passes, I.D. cards, court use, tournaments and free clinics, call 586-9850.

ICE RINK TO CLOSE

March 28. The ice skating rink at Mercer County Park will remain open through March 28 — weather permitting — the Mercer County Park Commission has announced.

The rink is open to the public on Monday from 9 to 3; Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 to 4 and 7 to 9 in the evening; Wednesday from 9 to 4; Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 and also Saturday evening from 7 to 9. For further information, call 586-8090.

Soccer Registration

The Princeton Soccer Association will hold registration for its spring season on Saturday at the Dinky Station on University Place from 10 to 1.

The season runs from March 31 through May 26, and is open to boys and girls in grades 1 to 8. For more information call 921-3528.

The Volvo Diesel and the Mercedes 300D are both well-appointed diesel automobiles.

The Volvo, for example, comes with a long list of standard equipment including air conditioning. Power windows and door locks. A sunroof. And an electrically-heated, orthopedically-designed driver's seat.

Of course, the 300D comes with an impressive list of standard features too.

But what makes the 300D so exceptional is not what it comes with, but what it goes for. More than twice the price of the Volvo. *

So if you're in the market for a roomy, well-equipped diesel that's built to last, you can spend a small fortune on a Mercedes.

Or you can make the much wiser purchase and buy a Volvo. Or two.

*Based on a comparison of manufacturers suggested retail price including dealer prep and delivery.
